Congress Is Given Warning

MacArthur Cables That Contemplated Cut in Forces Would be Dangerous

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—Congress received from Gen. Douglas MacArthur today a warning that any attempt to cut Pacific forces below the 400,000 strength contemplated by July 1 would "weaken to a dangerous degree" military controls over Japan and Korea.

A cable from the supreme Allied commander in the Pacific, containing this warning, was laid before a senate committee by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff.

Eisenhower appeared before the special senate military subcommittee to explain further the army's demobilization policies which he had outlined to an informal session of representatives and senators on Tuesday.

MacArthur reported there were 1,368,000 soldiers under his command in December, that this will be reduced to 660,000 by Jan. 20 and then gradually cut to 400,000 on July 1. This would include the 200,000 in Japan and Korea.

Committee Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (Democrat-Colo.) interjected that Eisenhower had told the meeting Tuesday that army forces in the Pacific theater would be cut to 375,000 by July 1, or 25,000 less than MacArthur's estimate.

Eisenhower said this represented an adjustment in air force totals, adding that MacArthur's command covered all troops for Japan, Korea, the Philippines, the Marianas and Hawaii.

The MacArthur message gave assurance that his command would follow Eisenhower's new order for return of men with 45 points or 30 months service by April 30, and of those with 40 points and 24 months by June 30.

Loss of key men, MacArthur added, already has hindered such operations as signal communications.

In outlining additional demobilization steps, Eisenhower told the committee he had:

Directed all theater commanders to "get down to rock bottom" by releasing every possible surplus man and officer.

Ordered a halt to all mass demonstrations by soldiers against demobilization delays.

Directed army inspector generals to visit all army installations and listen to individual complaints of all "junior officers and men" who believe they are not essential and being retained.

Eisenhower's return to Capitol Hill coincided with a demand for slashing the army close to its 1919 size.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) urging "the irreducible minimum" in army strength, said he thought it could get along July 1 with a million men. This compares with 931,422 in the ranks on the same date in 1919.

The army has been planning for 1,500,000 men by July, but Johnson told reporters he considers that figure about 500,000 too high. Eisenhower informed congress Tuesday that the army's strength on January 1 was 4,200,000, compared with the V-E day peak of 8,300,000.

Evidently Eisenhower's lengthy report to an informal joint session of congress Tuesday failed to touch on some matters still troubling the lawmakers, for the special senate military subcommittee on demobilization program. He scheduled a radio address to the nation on the subject for Friday night (8 p. m. CST).

Johnson's proposal for a post-war army close to the 1919 size ran counter to Eisenhower's statement Tuesday. The general said then that the war department was taking a big chance in lowering army strength to 1,500,000.

However, the subcommittee of which Johnson is chairman entertained hopes of selling the chief of staff some different ideas both on the army's size and demobilization.

Shirt Drink

BELOIT, Wis., Jan. 17—(AP)—Sam Meister couldn't buy one, so he advertised to swap a pint of whisky for a white dress shirt. He got the shirt, with offers to spare.

News Story Brings Official Ban on Gambling at Oahu

HONOLULU, Jan. 17—(AP)—A story in the army newspaper Stars and Stripes that a small group of soldiers was "making a small fortune" at dice from the homeward-bound GIs at the Oahu army personnel center brought an official army ban on all forms of gambling there.

Lt. Gen. Robert C. Robinson, Jr., mid-Pacific army commander, issued the ban late yesterday after Stars and Stripes reported "organized gambling goes on nightly with thousands of dollars changing hands."

"Now the men can't even play pinocle," said Col. William Saffarans, commandant of the center.

"I authorized controlled gambling in order to give the men a decent place where they could meet," he told interviewers.

He asserted they formerly gambled in latrines, in barracks and in other places and:

"They are going to gamble regardless of what anyone says and I provided a place where they never had the slightest trouble. Everything was open and above board."

He denied that anyone was taking a "cut" from the dice tables.

Staff Sgt. Buck Buchanan of Portland, Ore., Stars and Stripes reported, said in his published story that each of 10 tables had a GI taking a cut of the money when he watched games Monday night. He said he figured that about $1,000 was taken from the dice games during the night.

Saffarans said he would ask the paper to prove its statements that the games were organized.

The personnel center handles thousands of troops on their way home for discharge and currently is housing approximately 7,000.

Capt. A. K. Downs Home Wednesday

Captain Albert K. Downs, who has been overseas, in the Pacific areas, for 34 months, was released from service at Camp Beale, Calif., and arrived home Wednesday night. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Downs, 716 West Seventh street.

He is on 91-day terminal leave.

Wages of Crime

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 17—(AP)—A woman reported today a man had offered politely to hold her heavy shopping bag while she waited for a bus—and then he ran off with it.

She was en route to a relative's farm to bury a dead dog which she was carrying in the bag.

Would Give Appeal Right

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17—(AP)—A bill to give convicted drunk drivers the right to appeal to circuit court from suspension of their drivers' licenses was advanced to the final voting stage by the Missouri Senate today. Present law makes revocation mandatory when a driver is convicted of intoxication.

Skull Was Fractured

DENVER, Jan. 17—(AP)—Policeman Fred Bartle's car door stuck. He gave it a jerk. It opened, hitting him on the head. That was Monday.

Bartle grumbled, but thought no more about it. Yesterday he became ill. A doctor looked at him and called an ambulance. His jaw and skull were fractured.

Prowler In Car

Mrs. Ruth Ruffin, 226 South Grand avenue, reported to the police that while her car was parked at Sixth street and Grand avenue, someone ransacked the glove compartment in it. Nothing was reported as missing.

Never Thought Fleet Was to Defend Hawaii

Kimmel Contends There Was no Warning of Attack

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel said today he had never felt that the Pacific fleet was based at Pearl Harbor to defend Hawaii but was there to conduct offensive operations in the event of war with Japan.

The 1941 fleet commander made the statement in telling a senate-house inquiry committee about the "war warning" he received from the navy department on November 27, 1941, 10 days before the Japanese struck Pearl Harbor. The warning, he said, added little, if anything, to previous messages.

This was no warning of a surprise attack by the Japanese on Pearl Harbor, he contended, adding:

"This cure-all for every deficiency that might have accrued to Washington in this matter did not have that effect on me."

When Kimmel said that he had never seen the term "war warning" used in a naval message before, committee counsel Seth Richardson asked why Kimmel didn't ask Adm. Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, what was meant by the "extraordinary term."

"That is the trouble," Kimmel replied, "I did not consider it an extraordinary term."

Continued Training Because of this, he said he was not influenced to order the fleet to drop all training and to go on an all-out security basis.

Why didn't he ask Stark to help him make the decision when to drop training and put security measures into effect, Richardson asked.

Kimmel replied that Stark had testified that he had not intended for the fleet commander to halt his training program. It was a serious decision to make, Kimmel said, adding:

"I never conceived that the Pacific fleet was placed in Hawaii to defend Hawaii. I thought it was placed there to conduct offensive operations if there was war with Japan."

Kimmel told the committee that he had insufficient submarines to conduct a patrol in all directions from the Hawaiian island of Oahu and felt that he could not afford to place surface units on patrol in an arc to the north and west of Pearl Harbor. The Japanese struck from the north on Dec. 7, 1941.

No Unit to Sacrifice "We had no unimportant surface units that we could afford to sacrifice," he said. "If they had been put out, they would have been destroyed by the attacking force."

Rear Adm. Husband E. Kimmel told congressional investigators today how the Japanese succeeded in launching aerial torpedoes in the shallow waters of Pearl Harbor, a feat which navy experts in 1941 considered impossible.

The former Pacific fleet commander, detailing his own account of the distressing Japanese raid against the naval base Dec. 7, 1941, said the Japanese simply attached wooden fins to old-style torpedoes to do the job.

"That was the device the Japanese used," Kimmel said, "a device that all the brains of our navy department who had been working on the problem had been unable to discover."

He added dryly: "The solution to any problem seems easy after you have the answer."

Emmett L. Pulliam, 2001 East Broadway and Mrs. Jack Knight and son, Hughesville, dismissed.

Too Deep for Him to Figure

SYRACUSE, N. Y., Jan. 17—(AP)—Peter Giglio says he is trying to figure out why the army sent him to New Jersey for discharge from Okinawa when Australia was the place where he enlisted.

Giglio, an American citizen and a former corporal in the army air forces, appealed to his commanding officer, he said, to be sent to Sydney, Australia, where his wife and two children live. But, he added, he was sent to Fort Dix, N. J., where he was discharged Oct. 22, 1945.

In 1935 he married an Australian girl and both his children were born there.

He enlisted in the U. S. army in 1943, and served in Australia, New Guinea, the Philippines and Okinawa. On arrival at Fort Dix, the ex-soldier said, he was given $156.55 for traveling expenses to the west coast.

Baby Fatally Burned; Mother Seriously

LAREDO, Mo., Jan. 17—(AP)—A two-months-old child was burned to death and her mother seriously injured yesterday following the explosion of an oil stove in the kitchen of their home.

Mrs. Claude Kelsall, the mother, was taken to a hospital in Trenton, Mo.

Another child, age 2, escaped uninjured from the fire that destroyed the seven-room farm house.

Jobs, Problems Pile up for UNO Assembly

Propose Organization Control 'World Arms Industry'

By John M. Hightower

LONDON, Jan. 17—(AP)—United Nations control of the entire world armament industry, including atomic bomb factories, was proposed to the UNO general assembly today by Foreign Minister Jan G. Masaryk of Czechoslovakia.

Jobs and problems piled up for the assembly as it began the second week of its existence with a sobering speech by Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin of Great Britain.

Bevin said Britain was already negotiating to place three of her

LONDON, Jan. 17—(AP)—Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin told the UNO general assembly today that the yearly cost of the United Nations organization to all 51 member countries would be less than half the amount of money spent by the United Kingdom in a single day in the war just ended.

Bevin did not give any specific figures.

five old mandates from the League of Nations under the projected new United Nations trusteeship system. Belgian officials said they would announce similar intentions for their two mandates, Ruanda and Urundi, in East Africa.

Belgium's position is expected to be stated in a declaration to be read Friday or Saturday by M. F. Van Langenhove. Ruanda and Urundi were assigned to Belgium from German East Africa after the first world war.

Should Control Arms Masaryk told the assembly that, in order to safeguard humanity against the "latest scientific inventions," the world arms industry, "together with the latest devastating inventions, should be put under the control of the United Nations."

Delegates applauded Masaryk loudly several times, especially when he said he hoped that "not one particle of uranium produced in Czechoslovakia will ever be used for wholesale destruction and annihilation." Uranium is a source of material for atomic energy and the atomic bomb.

At another point, Masaryk deplored anti-Semitism.

"After what has happened to the Jews," he said, "solution of their problem is undeniably the duty of all decent people."

Nasrullah Entezam, Iranian delegate, said Iran's appeal for help in settling her dispute with Soviet Russia over political conditions in northern Iran might be formally presented the 11-nation security council tomorrow.

Members of the security council arranged to hold their first meeting today, but preliminary indications were that it would be held to formalities and routine.

Bevin said the three mandates Britain proposed to convert into United Nations trusteeships were Tanganyika, Togoland and the Cameroons. He said action on Palestine was being withheld pending results of a British-American inquiry into the Jewish-Arab issue there.

Wives Coming From Italy

LEGHORN, Jan. 17—(AP)—American military authorities said today foreign-born wives of U. S. military personnel in Italy would be provided with transportation to the United States henceforth. The arrangements will not interfere with troop shipments.

Meat Shortage Is Acute in Many Sections

Principals Heed Government Request To Hold Conference

CHICAGO, Jan. 17—(AP)—Packinghouse workers maintained picket lines around empty pens in most of the country's stockyards today as they looked to Washington for settlement of a paralyzing strike in the meat industry.

Leaders of the CIO and AFL unions involved in the huge walk-out—affecting some 263,000 workers—and representatives of the four major packers heeded appeals of government officials to meet in an attempt to reach an agreement on the wage dispute. One of the unions went to the peace talk ready to modify its wage demands.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17—(AP)—One Madison Avenue market, its meat supplies exhausted by the meat workers strike, was displaying this sign for the benefit of its patrons: "Plenty of pheasant, Scotch Grouse and Caviar."

Pheasant was quoted at $2.25 a pound and Caviar at $24 a pound. No price was given on grouse.

As the meeting by unions, packers and labor department officials got underway, the scarcity of meat became more acute in many sections as arrivals of livestock at principal markets dwindled.

Current supplies were shrinking rapidly and continuation of the strike, which started yesterday, threatened to reduce the country's fresh meat supply far below wartime rationing.

Reports from throughout the nation indicated supplies probably would be exhausted from within two to 10 days.

Prepared to Settle Going into today's Washington conference, the AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen, were prepared to settle for a wage increase of 15 cents an hour and had urged the CIO United Packinghouse workers to submit a similar proposal.

The CIO union, however, has held out for a 17½ cents an hour wage hike immediately, with later negotiations on an additional 7½ cents, and did not comment on the AFL union's action in lowering its demand. Original demands were for 25 cents an hour pay hikes.

Earl W. Jimerson, president of the AFL union, said the offer by packers of 10 cents an hour was "very inadequate." He said the union was ready to accept an offer of 15 cents and promised normal operations by next Monday in all plants where its members are on strike.

The AFL estimated about 70,000 of its members had walked out while the CIO claimed all its 193,000 members were on strike.

Four Packers Hard Hit The strike hit hardest at the country's four principal packers—Swift, Armour, Cudahy and Wilson—and livestock receipts yesterday, as the walkout started, dropped sharply. At 12 leading midwest markets, hog arrivals totaled 17,700, compared to 118,849 a week ago.

There were no indications that the government planned to seize the strike-bound plants. However, Edgar L. Warren, chief of the federal conciliation services, said appointment of a fact-finding board to study the dispute was under consideration.

Dies of Injuries Received in Fight

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo., Jan. 17—(AP)—Louis S. Epps, 29-year-old recently discharged war veteran, died today of head injuries received in a fight at a tavern here last night. Police are holding two men for questioning but had not filed formal charges this afternoon.

Coroner Grover Greer said an inquest would be held tomorrow but thus far he has been unable to establish a motive for the fatal fight.

80,000 Die in Concentration Camp

WARSAW, Jan. 10—(Delayed)—(AP)—More than 80,000 American, Greek, British, Russian, Polish, French and New Zealand prisoners of war were killed or died of starvation in a Nazi concentration camp at Lambinowice near Niemodlin in lower Silesia, an official commission reported today.

Authorities said they had found a cemetery stretching many miles and deep ditches with many layers of bodies.

(The Polish press agency said the bodies of 40,000 had been unearthed in one mass grave.)

Inflationary Pressures On Increase

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith
WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—Government economists said today that in general current strikes are increasing inflationary pressures.

But some officials expressed the opinion that widespread and prolonged work stoppages could have the opposite effect eventually and thus cause prices for consumer goods to drop in areas directly affected.

OPA and commerce department analysts who asked that their names not appear in print said that beyond a doubt strikes now in progress are exerting great pressure on prices.

"The natural immediate tendency of families of workers out on strike," one commerce official asserted, "is to prepare for an emergency. This means that even though future income is uncertain, money available is spent to lay in food supplies, clothing and other essential items."

"It's a matter of buying now, rather than take a chance on being able to later."

M. P. to Build Frog, Switch Factory Here

Additional Men To be Brought Here For Skilled Work

The Missouri Pacific Lines will build a frog and switch factory, on the company's shop grounds, in Sedalia, according to announcement made today. The building, 80 by 200 feet, will be of steel and masonry, and bids for its construction will be taken immediately. All frogs and switches for the entire system will then be made in Sedalia, which means that at least thirty technical men and high class mechanics will be brought to the city for employment in the plant.

An addition, 75 by 100 feet, will be made to the reclamation plant, which also means an additional number of employees will come to Sedalia for this department.

New Electrical Shop

Recently completed is a building to house the electrical shop, wherein all electric work for the entire system will be done. Ten additional electricians have been added.

Another building recently enlarged is the locomotive shops made necessary because all large locomotives on the entire system will be brought here for repairs. No other shop on the system is large enough to take care of the work on the large, new, modern engines turned out the past three years.

Review Club's Achievements

The Sedalia Kiwanis program Thursday noon in Bothwell Hotel was devoted to a review of the club's achievements during 1945 under the Presidency of Clyde Heynen. The achievement report was outlined by Past President Harry Brunkhorst as it will be submitted to Kiwanis International.

Clarence Evans presided as program chairman.

Bert Hathaway became a new member and was introduced and given the induction ceremonies by his father-in-law, the Rev. H. U. Campbell after which Job Harned presented the new member a club lapel button.

Guests were: E. E. Hermann with L. W. Satorius, Lloyd Satterwhite with the Rev. W. C. Bessmer, Major Melvin Dolginoff with Joe Rosenthal, and Kiwanian Max P. Shelton, St. Louis.

At the conclusion of the meeting Clyde Heynen was called to the speaker's table where Mr. Brunkhorst presented him with a Past President's lapel button. Mr. Heynen is immediate past president, having been succeeded by the Rev. Fr. Brunswick.

Government May Hike Milk Prices

By Ovid A. Martin
WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—The government is scheduling a series of meetings which may result eventually in higher milk prices.

The increases—possibly months away—would be two cents a quart during the spring and summer and three cents a quart during winter months.

The first of the hearings will open at New York today. The second will be held for the Boston milk market next month.

Similar sessions are planned in most large cities where dairymen's prices are regulated by the agriculture department under federal milk marketing orders.

Agree or Truman Steps in Principals in Threatened Steel Strike Given Last Chance to Settle

By Harold W. Ward

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(AP)—President Truman gave the two principals in the threatened steel strike their last chance today to work out an agreement together before he proposes a way to end the deadlock.

The president gave CIO President Murray and Benjamin Fairless, U. S. Steel head, until this afternoon to settle their wage dispute.

Should they fail, he said, he will step in with "a proposal in the public interest."

Mr. Truman urged the two men, just before they left the White House last night after a day of fruitless talks, to "sleep over it and pray over it and do their utmost to get together and come back again at two o'clock tomorrow afternoon."

Both said they would.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross described the leave-taking.

Afternoon Meeting This sharp focusing of the spotlight on the crucial White House meeting tended to divert top attention from new administration efforts here to find a solution for the meat packing strike, already hitting the nation's meat markets.

Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach invited management and labor representatives to an afternoon meeting in his office.

The steel proposal Mr. Truman has in mind is his own secret, but there was some speculation it might involve his personal judgment on what would be a reasonable adjustment of the rival wage stands.

Ross told reporters this morning the fact-finding board members named by the president to inquire into the steel wage dispute would call on Mr. Truman this afternoon to discuss the whole situation.

The board has held no hearings but it was at its request that wage discussions were first resumed in New York ten days ago. After the breakdown of negotiations in New York, the president requested Fairless and Murray to come here for renewed discussions.

No Official Report The secretary said the board was not bringing in a report but that doubtless the members had accumulated a lot of information on the situation.

Ross said government seizure "has not entered into the discussions" through last night's talks. He also reported that, of course, Fairless and Murray could accept or reject the presidential proposal.

Fairless has offered to pay 15 cents more an hour but Murray is adamant on nothing less than 19½ cents for his 800,000 CIO-steelworkers who are due to strike next Monday.

The president already has urged General Motors corporation to accept a fact-finding board's proposal of 19½ cents more an hour for 175,000 striking CIO-auto workers. The steel industry generally has paid somewhat less than the auto industry, according to experienced labor observers, and therefore the president might suggest 17½ or 18 cents.

Those close to the president were giving no hint, however, that he would select such a figure.

Albert L. Anderson, Jr., Suffers Burns

Albert L. Anderson, Jr., suffered first and second degree burns on his face, neck and right arm this morning as the result of an explosion of a carbide lighting system with which he was working at his home, RFD 5, Sedalia. Anderson was treated by Dr. John B. Carlisle and is a patient at Bothwell hospital.

Looting Ship

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 17—(AP)—Louis Guillemette, Woonsocket, R. I., captain of the American Liberty ship Frank B. Kellogg, said today looting was so bad in Tandjong Priok that one-third of his ship's 4,200-ton cargo will have been stolen from the docks by the time the vessel is unloaded.

Appointment Confirmed

Merry-Go-Round

by Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—Adm. Leahy, who since the departure of Harry Hopkins knows more about what goes on behind the scenes in international conferences than anyone else around the White House, dropped in to see his chief, President Truman, the other day. Leahy was worried over the morale of U. S. troops abroad and recalled a commitment Franklin Roosevelt had made to Churchill to keep more than 2,000,000 men in the American armies of occupation.

"I told Franklin Roosevelt after the Yalta conference," the White House chief of staff said to Truman, "that we couldn't keep that many men abroad. The country, I told him, won't stand for it."

"These are boys who were glad to fight a war to defend their country when it was in danger. But they're not a professional army, and when the fighting's over it'll be like a football game—everybody'll want to go home."

"You can't expect boys to stay over there making $50 a month when they know they can make $50 a week back home."

"That's what I told Roosevelt," Leahy continued. "I'm not at all sure he agreed with me, but that's exactly what's happening today."

"A few hot-heads and Communists are taking advantage of a situation which is ready made for them and the result is making us ridiculous in the eyes of the world."

Note — Admiral Leahy doesn't for a minute think we should get out of Germany and Japan altogether. But he does think we can curtail U. S. forces in Germany down to what we actually need and let this army be one of volunteers recruited expressly for overseas occupation. The same system should be followed in Japan, where an occupation force of marines eventually could take over. The islands of the Pacific and many other less essential areas could easily be policed by the navy with much smaller use of manpower.

Cordell Hull's Poker

Ever since the Texas Baptists lampooned President Truman for poker-playing, everyone around the White House has been poker-shy. So also is Governor Dewey. During the last campaign, one newsman, after writing a very complimentary story about Dewey, submitted it to him for comment. He described the New York governor as a home loving man whose usual form of relaxation was a quiet poker game with a few friends on Saturday night.

Dewey called the author, praised his story, but finally blurted out: "Now, about those Saturday nights—couldn't you change it from poker to bridge?"

Not so sensitive is Cordell Hull. Col. Harold Hinton, now returned from five years in the army to rejoin the New York Times, is Cordell Hull's official biographer. In writing his biography, he sent the former secretary of state several anecdotes for verification. One was a story regarding Hull's ability as a poker player. In the Spanish-American war, so the story went, Hull was so good at poker that he kept his company continually out of funds.

When the story came back to Hull, the secretary of state had crossed out the word "company" and substituted the word "regiment."

Note — There are only 170 men in a company, but about 2,800 in a regiment.

Japs and Marines Cooperate

Two-fisted Maury Maverick, retiring chairman of smaller war plants corporation, gave President Truman a very disturbing report on conditions in the Orient last week.

Maverick told Truman he was particularly distressed about the morale of American forces in China, where they are increasingly embittered at Chiang Kai-Shek.

The GIs, Maverick reported, are boiling mad over the way Chiang has insisted on retaining 20,000 armed Japanese to help put down rival Chinese factions.

When Maverick landed at the Peiping airport, he told Truman that he found 1,000 Marines on one side of the field and 600 armed Japanese on the other. The American boys, many of whose buddies died fighting the Japs, were outraged over the fact that they had to cooperate with their enemies—all for the sake of Chiang Kai-Shek. Maverick went so far as to warn that there might be instances of Chinese killing American troops because of our now being on the same side as the Japs.

Maverick also reported to Truman that American business men were suffering economic setbacks in China despite our help to the Chinese government. He said that while the Chinese kept American businessmen at arms' length, the British and Russians were already on their way to resuming large-scale trade.

The Russians have already signed a secret trade agreement with the Chinese which gives them far greater trade opportunities than American business.

At the end of Maverick's gloomy report, the president explained that he was not favoring the Chiang Kai-Shek government, but that he did very much favor peace in China. He said he was aware of the dangers in China, but didn't see what could be done about it until peace was finally worked out.

Note — Since then it looks as if General Marshall finally had worked out the long-desired goal of Chinese peace. State department experts are very much hoping the peace will be more than a temporary lull.

Science Still Probes Mystery of Polio

Infantile paralysis is not a new disease, but its recognition is comparatively recent. Earliest medical observation was by an English doctor, Michael Underwood, in 1784.

Jacob von Heine, German orthopedic surgeon, wrote a report in 1840, which was first description of poliomyelitis as a separate disease. He devised exercise machines, special braces.

Modern approach to polio owes much to Otto Ivar Wickman, whose 1905 report on a Swedish epidemic showed contagion occurred through personal contact and spurred research.

Experiments proved most effective with monkeys, and it was found the nasal passages are the means of transmitting the germ. Attempts to establish immunity have failed.

Franklin D. Roosevelt, himself a victim of the crippling disease, established the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis in 1938. It finances most of the research on polio.

Polio remains an enigma, but science admits no final defeat. Aided by the March of Dimes and other contributions, laboratories work constantly to conquer the Great Crippler.

The GIs, Maverick reported, are boiling mad over the way Chiang has insisted on retaining 20,000 armed Japanese to help put down rival Chinese factions.

When Maverick landed at the Peiping airport, he told Truman that he found 1,000 Marines on one side of the field and 600 armed Japanese on the other. The American boys, many of whose buddies died fighting the Japs, were outraged over the fact that they had to cooperate with their enemies—all for the sake of Chiang Kai-Shek. Maverick went so far as to warn that there might be instances of Chinese killing American troops because of our now being on the same side as the Japs.

Maverick also reported to Truman that American business men were suffering economic setbacks in China despite our help to the Chinese government. He said that while the Chinese kept American businessmen at arms' length, the British and Russians were already on their way to resuming large-scale trade.

The Russians have already signed a secret trade agreement with the Chinese which gives them far greater trade opportunities than American business.

At the end of Maverick's gloomy report, the president explained that he was not favoring the Chiang Kai-Shek government, but that he did very much favor peace in China. He said he was aware of the dangers in China, but didn't see what could be done about it until peace was finally worked out.

Note — Since then it looks as if General Marshall finally had worked out the long-desired goal of Chinese peace. State department experts are very much hoping the peace will be more than a temporary lull.

White House Plans Postwar Expansion

The President of the United States is so busy these days that his executive offices have proved too small. So a large extension, shown in architect's sketch, above, is planned. The proposed addition would extend south of the present office building, along West Executive Avenue. It would provide 15,000 square feet of new office space for the President's executive assistants and a large clerical force, now in quarters outside the White House. It will include an auditorium accommodating 375 persons, providing urgently needed facilities for ceremonies, press conferences, radio broadcasts and similar events. Construction is expected to start in the spring. Airview above shows present set-up of White House and auxiliary buildings.

Truman a very disturbing report on conditions in the Orient last week.

Maverick told Truman he was particularly distressed about the morale of American forces in China, where they are increasingly embittered at Chiang Kai-Shek.

The Doctor Says Overeating Believed Cause of Gallstones

By WILLIAM A. O'BRIEN, M. D. Written for NEA Service

One of every five women over 40 years of age has gallstones; it is not so common in men. Majority of stones do not themselves cause symptoms; chief concern is the possibility of attacks and complications.

As the bile passes from the liver on its way to the gallbladder, it is a thin mixture which later is concentrated. Stones are more apt to form in thick bile, especially if the gallbladder is infected. Gallstones consist of a fatty material, bile-coloring matter and calcium. Overeating, particularly of fats, tends to cause gallstone formations, according to some investigators.

Pain In Attack Characteristic gallstone attacks start with a colicky pain below the rib margin on the right side, extending through the back to a point just below the tip of the right shoulder blade. The attacks start after a heavy meal, especially of pork, fried foods, or cabbage. Vomiting is constant with severe attacks. When jaundice develops it is most likely that the stone has tried to pass down the bile duct and has become lodged.

Attacks of colic occur at varying intervals; strict attention to diet may help in avoiding attacks. A diet low in fat and high in sugars and starches is recommended. Fat patients should reduce through a special diet. Animal fats, especially those which are rendered (bacon grease) always should be avoided. A tablespoon of olive oil each night is well tolerated and appears to be beneficial.

Heavy Vegetables Bad Vegetables such as sauerkraut, cabbage, onions, cucumbers, pickles, and radishes are troublesome. Highly seasoned or spiced foods are not advisable. If the restricted diet is deficient the physician will prescribe a vitamin supplement as indicated.

Sensation of fullness, distress in the region of fullness, distress in the region of the stomach after eating, heartburn and gas are usually suggestive of an infected gallbladder or stones. Further examinations are indicated, but operation is not done except to relieve attacks of colic or pain distress.

Operation in an infected gallbladder or stones removes the gallbladder, as this prevents further attacks. Further difficulty after the gallbladder has been removed results from complications in the bile duct or liver.

Remedies which purport to dissolve gallstones have been sold to the public, but they are without value. "Stones" passed under such conditions prove to be soap pellets formed from the medicine.

STOP JOHN CLAY!

THE STORY: Pike starts for Bateman's house. He knows that Bland is following him and lets him get ahead. When Pike reaches the library, Bland is just leaving it. The house is dark and no one answers the door chime. Pike enters, strikes a match, discovers Bateman's body. He suddenly hears a car stop outside. Someone comes up the steps.

XII PIKE dropped the match and it went out. This was a mess. He hadn't provided for the front door blocked and he didn't know any other way out. And no light.

As he passed through the hall, he could see the shadow of a figure through the window. Pike was sweating now. Through the dampness of the rain he could feel the perspiration oozing through his pores.

Then the chimes sounded. He ran into a chair, shielded, and found a door. He yanked it open. Chimes again. Then knocking. Knock, knock, knock! Like Shakespeare's Macbeth. You'll wake up Bateman.

He was in the kitchen and he was running. Never mind the noise. He thought he heard the front door open and he ran with his hands in front of him.

He found a door, yanked it open. A closet. Damn! Where the devil was the back door? He thought he heard a voice. Someone called. Then he found the back door. He grabbed the door-knob and pulled. Locked!

That tears it, he thought. That does it. That cooks the eminent Mr. Calvin's goose. He heard a light switch snap. He could see rays of light coming from in front of the house. Then there was a piercing scream.

That did it. That scream cleared his head. Am I ever a damned fool, he thought. Windows. The bungalow was full of them. He went over, raised a window, and dropped through it to the ground.

It was 10:30 when Pike came down for breakfast the next morning. The main dining room was closed. But Mr. Bland was on deck. He came toward Pike behind his big white teeth and said:

"You're late." Pike went to the desk and picked up a newspaper. "Good morning, Mr. Calvin," Mr. Hitt said.

"Good morning," Pike said. Mr. Hitt was looking at him oddly. Halfway across the lobby Mr. Bland picked him up again. "We can get coffee in the grill room," he said. "Have you heard the news?"

"No," Pike said. "Bateman is dead." Pike looked into Bland's bright black eyes. The man stared back at him implacably.

"Suicide," Bland said and grinned so hugely that Pike was afraid his dentures would slip. "He took a dose of something—they're not quite sure what."

They found a table in the grill room. Pike would have liked to read his newspaper, but there was something fascinating about Bland. In a way he was like John Clay. He had no moral sense at all. But he seemed a little wayward. If Bland knew what he wanted, he was the only one. Pike put away his newspaper.

"Go ahead," he said. "Tell me all about it." Bland spread his big hands. "There's nothing to tell. He's dead. That's all I know. I thought perhaps—"

"No," Pike said. "You must have some idea why he wanted to see you." "Not the slightest," Pike said. "As a matter of fact, I'm not certain that he wanted to see me."

Bland decided to have a little cointreau with his coffee. He gave his order to the waiter. Then he leaned back and looked brightly at Pike.

"You left the Inn last night," Bland reminded him, "presumably to visit Mr. Bateman. You must have believed someone then. And you—"

"Look, Mr. Bland," Pike unfolded his paper and smoothed out the front page. "Someone will be around to ask all of these questions later—officially. Then I'll give an account of all my movements last night."

He stopped and looked significantly at Bland. "I hope you'll do the same," he concluded. (To Be Continued)

Decline Slash Property Tax

State Senate In Vote To Leave Levy At Present Rate

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(AP)—The Missouri senate declined Wednesday to cut the state property tax from 5 to 3 cents on each $100 assessed valuation, voting instead to leave the levy at the present rate.

On a standing vote which cut across party lines, the senate supported, 17-10, an amendment by Sen. Emery W. Allison of Rolla, Democratic floor leader, restoring the five cent figure. As passed by the house, the bill called for reducing the tax to three cents.

Economy advocates defended the three cents levy as a step toward reduction of tax burdens but Sen. Jasper Smith (R) of Springfield countered:

"Let's not kid ourselves by calling this a tax reduction. It doesn't amount to a drop in the bucket."

Brings In Two Million

The five cent tax produces about $2,000,000 a year and, Sen. Roy D. Miller (R) of Columbia said, costs about $500,000 to collect. Even if the entire levy were eliminated, he said, collection costs would remain the same because assessors still would have to be paid for collecting special property levies for the state blind pension and for certificates of indebtedness.

Both Allison and Smith argued that it was unwise to tinker with a fundamental part of the state tax structure without a thorough study to determine how the new constitution will affect governmental revenues.

"I think it would be terribly inadvisable to cut this tax now," Allison said.

Sponsoring the bill Sen. Arnold Leonard (R) of Joplin said he thought the entire five cent levy should be wiped out.

"I don't believe people ought to be taxed to build up state surpluses," he asserted.

Sen. C. R. Hawkins (R) of Brumley granted that the tax reduction would be small but added "it's time to begin to think about the people who are absolutely crushed by the tax burden, federal and state."

The bill, which changes property tax statutes to conform with the new tax calendar of the 1945 constitution, was sent back to the house for concurrence in the senate action.

The robbers who entered the apartment of former Sedalians, Mr. and Mrs. George Cortez at 1122 Pennsylvania avenue Kansas City, early Tuesday night went so far as to steal the watchdog, Susie, a gentle, harmless 11-year-old brindle Boston bulldog, along with other loot with a total valuation of $75.

Cortez, a tire repair man, and his wife went to Kansas City recently from Sedalia, and moved into the first floor apartment four days ago. When they returned from dinner at 9:30 o'clock they found the door lock had been broken.

The loot included thirty pillow slips, fifteen sheets and a dozen towels.

Mrs. Wallis Is Held For Murder

FONTANA, Calif., Jan. 17.—(AP)—Mrs. Gwendolyn Wallis, 31, was held for trial on a charge of murdering Mrs. Ruby Clark, 24-year-old school teacher she accused of stealing her husband's affections, at the close of a brief preliminary hearing Wednesday.

Justice of the Peace Roy E. Berridge, on motion of James King, defense attorney, dismissed a charge of assault with a deadly weapon based on the fact that a spent bullet struck her husband, Don Wallis, after penetrating Mrs. Clark's arm.

Deputy District Atty. Taylor F. Peterson, who had filed the assault charge to prevent Wallis' refusal to testify against his wife, said he would refile it.

Eldon H. Fenderson, whose wife is a stepsister of Mrs. Clark and Deputy Sheriff John De Szabo, were the only witnesses today.

Fenderson testified Mrs. Clark was shot as she sat in Wallis' car late the night of Dec. 26. De Szabo said he called shortly afterward at the trailer where Mrs. Wallis lived with her husband, a civilian guard at a nearby army quartermaster depot, and that Mrs. Wallis sur-

Aim House Bill At Petrillo

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—A bill aimed at James C. Petrillo, head of the American Federation of Musicians (AFL) was set today for committee consideration in the house.

Chairman (D-Calif) of the commerce committee introduced it and scheduled a committee session on it tomorrow. Rep. Brown (R-Ohio) of the committee predicted passage.

"The country is pretty well fed up with Petrillo," Brown said. "He has gone too far."

Lea told reporters that Petrillo has made demands upon broadcasters which "a self-respecting government cannot afford to permit."

The bill would outlaw force or threats to compel a radio station: 1. To "pay tribute" for the privilege of producing or using records, transcriptions or mechanical, chemical or electrical reproductions.

2. To employ more persons than it wants.

3. To refrain from broadcasting a non-commercial education or cultural program where the participants receive no pay.

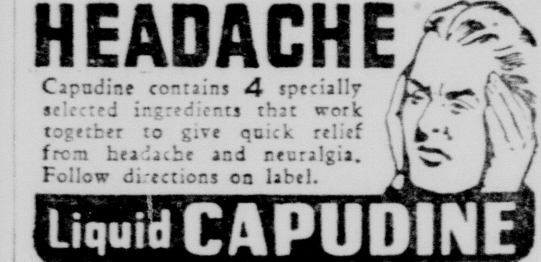

4. To refrain from broadcasting programs originating abroad.

A Missouri version of an anti-Petrillo legislation was defeated in the state house of representatives last Wednesday. A bill to prevent unions from requiring the use of "standby" orchestras for non-profit musical programs failed to get enough votes for passage.

Still pending in the house is a companion measure which would prevent union musicians from interfering with non-profit radio programs.

For Expanding Draft To Get Replacements

Call To Single Men To 45 And 'Lots' Of 4-F's Proposed

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(AP)—Senator Johnson (D-Colo.) proposed Wednesday that single men up to 45 and "lots" of 4-Fs be drafted to provide army replacements overseas.

The war department announced, meanwhile, that General Dwight D. Eisenhower will address the nation by radio on the demobilization problem. The chief of staff will make a 15-minute broadcast at 9 p. m. (eastern standard time) Friday over CBS and possibly other networks.

If the draft is greatly expanded until May 15 and voluntary enlistments are increased, Johnson said, "then there will be no need to continue Selective Service beyond May 15, when it will expire."

He also expressed belief that the army's plan for a force of 1,500,000 by July 1 "can be cut down by at least 500,000 men."

Johnson, chairman of a senate military subcommittee assigned to look into demobilization, outlined his views to reporters after its initial hearing.

The problem of huge army surpluses, scattered over many Pacific islands and in Europe and Africa, arose as Acting Secretary of War Kenneth C. Royall testified. He said many soldiers are required to handle and guard these supplies.

By next July 1 when the army plans to cut down from a present 4,200,000 to 1,500,000, Royall said, it may be necessary to abandon millions of dollars worth of surplus property to get men home.

Johnson and Senator Revercomb (R-WVa.) asked for a complete inventory of this property. Royall agreed to supply it.

He estimated that some $14,000,000,000 of army property, excluding airplanes, is now scattered around the world. Of this, Royall said, some $1,800,000,000 has been declared surplus and about $166,000,000 sold. His figures were based on the cost of the material.

Royall declared the war department is just as anxious as congress to "get boys out of the army and back home as quickly as possible." He added that already 1,600,000 soldiers are home ahead of schedule.

"You have made a great record," Johnson told Royall. "It surprised everybody. We would like to have you continue it into the new year. We are not trying to convict anybody. We are trying to clarify the facts of demobilization."

Johnson said General Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff, will testify tomorrow and Major General Lewis B. Hershey, Selective Service head, will be called later.

Several Key Japs Accused Of Complicity In Mock-Trial and Execution of Doolittle's Men

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17.—(P)—Several key Japanese accused of complicity in a mock court martial and execution of three of Gen. James A. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders have been rounded up and will face war crimes trials here, the army reported today.

The trials may begin before the end of January.

Capt. Tatsuta Sotojiro, who commanded the Japanese squad accused of executing the fliers in October, 1942, in a bleak Shanghai cemetery, was apprehended in Tokyo and brought here by Lt. Col. John H. Hendren, Jr., Kansas City and Capt. Robert T. Dwyer, Rochester, N. Y. Hendren and Dwyer probably will be designated prosecutors.

Others in Tokyo will be brought here shortly. Hendren said a few Japanese still are to be rounded up in connection with the executions.

Eight captured Doolittle fliers from two Mitchell bombers that crashed on the China coast after bombing Tokyo from the carrier Hornet were sentenced to death in a bizarre, makeshift court martial. Five of the sentences were commuted to life imprisonment but three fliers were shot to death as they knelt before open graves.

Must be Guilty Of a Crime

By Duane Hennessy

TOKYO, Jan. 17.—(P)—General MacArthur's charter for the war crimes trials of Hideki Tojo, Japan's Pearl Harbor premier, and other top suspects will require the prosecution to prove each defendant guilty of a criminal act, headquarters reported today.

A spokesman said it would not be sufficient to prove that a defendant was a member of some malevolent organization or war-making cabinet.

Neither will the topflight Japanese be tried on charges of negligence—that as officers they failed to take certain steps that would have helped prevent the Pacific conflict.

Instead, the trials will seek to bring home to the Japanese people the personal guilt of each man facing the tribunal—personal affirmation of acts which constitute a crime against humanity committed by him as an individual.

Federal Court Issues Nine Injunctions

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—Federal district court here yesterday issued nine injunctions granting damages for overcharges in sales of yellow pine dimension lumber.

Five were against firms in the Kansas City division and four were to be filed at Joplin.

The OPA asked $50 for each overcharge alleged.

Firms enjoined and amounts paid included the E. D. Sayles Lumber Company, Clinton, Mo., $400; Lehigh Lumber company of Kansas City, operating as the Home Lumber company at Sedalia, $500; Robinson-Davis Lumber company, Neosho, $650; E. F. Speck Lumber company, Joplin, $200; Stanley Lumber company, Carthage, $200; and the E. C. Abernathy Lumber company, Joplin, $200.

Mothers of Pre-School Children Meet

The Pre-School Association of Horace Mann school met at 2:00 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Ed Sutherland gave the devotional, reports were given by the secretary on the kindergarten and plans were discussed for Founders' Day observance. Mrs. Virgil Herrick reviewed, "Four-Five, How I Thive," from the national magazine.

Mrs. Granville Blair reviewed the PTA page.

Flowers For The New Mother

The new mother will be so pleased at your thoughtfulness when you have flowers sent to the house. They'll do so much to brighten the room and to cheer her convalescent hours. Personals

Mrs. O. A. Lenington and grandson, Bobby Smith, have returned home from Akimville, Mo., where they visited Mrs. Lenington's mother, Mrs. Laura J. Bechtel, her sister, Miss Cora Bechtel, and her brother, Lem Bechtel. Mrs. Lenington said that if robins were a sign of pretty weather it must be here because last Friday morning there were as many as fifty robins at one time in her mother's yard.

Mrs. Adolph Glenn, 815 South Ohio avenue, has returned home after a visit in St. Louis.

Miss Mary Riley, 1316 West Fourth street, who has been visiting relatives in Kansas City, has returned home.

Mrs. George D. Witthaus of St. Paul, Minn., is visiting her sister, Mrs. Pauline Prentiss, 219 West Fourth street.

Mr. and Mrs. Emerson Gravelle, of Clifton, Ill., have returned to their home after a visit with Mrs. Gravelle's brother and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Ortwig, 506 North Prospect avenue.

Howard Watterson, formerly of Sedalia, now of Chillicothe, is in Sedalia visiting with friends today.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter L. Jennings and son, Berry Lee, are leaving today for Austin, Tex., to make their home. Mr. Jennings has recently received his discharge from the army. While he was in service Mrs. Jennings and son have been making their home with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Campbell Berry, 812 West Fourth street. Mr. and Mrs. Jennings and son will visit a few days in Kansas City before going on to Austin.

Mrs. T. S. Cunningham, 120 1/2 West Sixth street, has as her guest Charles A. Richardson, of Story, Iowa. Mr. Richardson, who was a lieutenant in the Army Air Forces has recently received his discharge after about three and a half years' service.

Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Glaze, 620 West Fourth street, have returned home from Gainsville, Mo., where they were called last week because of the death of Dr. Glaze's father, D. R. Glaze. The funeral was held Monday afternoon.

No Fumble as He Puts Ring on

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 17.—(P)—"Look at the slick way he put that ring on my finger. Not a fumble!"

Happily, a WAC Medical Technician, Corp. Ruth Spaulding Langstaff, held tight to the hooks which Pfc. Robert Langstaff uses for hands, after their marriage last night.

Langstaff lost his hands when a machine gun blew up in France. He and his bride, 32, whose home is in Anderson, Ind., met in a hospital here.

Change In Meeting Place

The Study Club of the Jefferson Parent Teachers Association which was to have met at the home of Mrs. Ed Hallahan was previously announced will meet instead with Mrs. Verney Engholm, 314 North Summit avenue, at 2:30 o'clock Friday afternoon. The meeting place has been changed because of the illness of Mrs. Hallahan.

Cattle Overtaken Caboose

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 17.—(P)—A heard of cattle attacked a Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad freight train near Spearpoint on the Marysville branch and overturned the caboose, railroad officials here said. Conductor W. M. Hoffman and brakeman D. B. Wagstaff were slightly injured.

Find Outlets For All Stock

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—Southwestern livestock markets reported today they were finding outlets for all their arrivals, despite the general strike which closed major packing houses.

Kansas City market interests said there would be an outlet for the supply through the seven local independent packers and other buyers, who in turn would send their purchases to other points.

Elsewhere in the area—St. Louis, Oklahoma City, Wichita and Fort Worth—no signs of a glut were apparent. At Oklahoma City, the United States Department of Agriculture, reported all cattle reaching the Oklahoma National Stockyards were being taken by independent packers as soon as they arrived. At St. Louis shippers and small butchers were taking all receipts they could lay their hands on, in fact, the situation there, was one of trying to get more stock to the yards.

Says GIs Must Salute Jeeps

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—Rep. Rees (R-Kan.) told the house today that GIs on a small, South Pacific island have been ordered to salute empty jeeps bearing the white stars of generals.

"I thought the house should know," Rees said, "that it has gotten to the place where our boys must not only salute officers but their empty jeeps as well."

Rees declined to say where the order was issued, but read it into the Congressional Record as follows:

"All army vehicles bearing the white star of a general officer will be saluted whether it is occupied by a general or not. The vehicle will be saluted if it passes a soldier on the street or if the vehicle is stationary and the soldier passes it. The soldier will also salute all officers riding in a vehicle. When saluting, the soldier should turn his head in the direction of the vehicle or officer and look directly at the object of his salute. All salutes should be rendered wholeheartedly with snap and precision and in a military manner."

Among those allowed to enter before the police opened the picket line was E. W. Phelps, plant manager. He was beaten yesterday when he arrived at the gate.

Meanwhile there was peaceful picketing at the other three packing houses, Armour, Wilson and Cudahy. An estimated 7,000 workers are affected by the strike, 1,800 of them at the Swift plant.

D. R. Flaherty, president of the Swift Independent Union, estimated about 10 per cent of the Swift workers appeared ready for work this morning, waiting for a court injunction against the rival CIO union.

Fact Finding Board Named

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—Secretary of labor Schwollenbach today appointed a fact-finding board to investigate the wage dispute in the meat packing industry.

Schwollenbach said the panel would meet later today with representatives of the CIO and AFL unions and meat packing companies who are involved in the dispute.

The new panel is headed by Edwin E. Witte, former public member of the national war labor board. Other members are Clark Kerr, chairman of the new demerit war labor board's meat packing commission and chief justice Raymond W. Starr of the Michigan supreme court.

Schwollenbach will take part in this afternoon's meeting.

Goal War-Time Achievements

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 17.—(P)—War-time achievements of farmers provide a chart to guide them in their future defense of the family-type farm, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson declared last night.

Anderson, addressing a Missouri Bankers University conference, said if the family farm is to survive against forces of size and concentration, farmers must observe the practices of cooperation, utilization of technological advances, production controls, and other methods which they used with success during the war.

Former Sedalian to Interview Doctors

Don Salmon, Springfield, Mo., former resident of Sedalia, is enroute to Chicago, Ill., to attend a medical convention and to have an interview with United States Army doctors regarding various leg and foot braces which he has designed.

Mr. Salmon is chief orthopedic mechanic at the O'Reilly General hospital, Springfield, and has designed several braces which have met with approval of army doctors there.

Tariff Cases

Overtime parking violators who failed to appear in police court this morning numbered six and their one-dollar cash bonds were ordered forfeited by Magistrate C. W. Benite.

They were: John C. McFarland, 1210 East Eleventh street; W. J. Cassidy, 317 East Walnut; W. D. Smith, Trust Company Bldg.; J. S. Hudson, 1101 South Kentucky avenue; Doyle Finnell, 105 North Prospect avenue; Chris Rosen, 118 1/2 South Ohio avenue.

10 Patrolmen Open CIO Picket Line

Only Small Group Of Employees Entered Plant

KANSAS CITY, Kas., Jan. 17.—(P)—A detail of 10 patrolmen opened the CIO picket line around the Swift and Co. packing house today, but only a small number of employees took the opportunity to enter and the plant remained shut down.

The Swift plant, whose production workers were not included in the general strike which closed three other major plants, was shut down yesterday when CIO pickets from the United Packinghouse Workers Union prevented employees from entering. Swift's production workers, members of an independent union, had voted two to one not to join the general CIO walkout.

About 50 production workers walked through after the flying wedge of policemen had parted the double picket line. About 150 others, waiting at their union headquarters across the street, did not move when police informed them they would be escorted through. There was no violence.

Investigator An Observer

Walter A. McDaniel, in investigator for A. B. Mitchell, state attorney general, was an observer. Last night Mitchell had suggested to the CIO union that it permit peaceful entry into the Swift plant.

Among those allowed to enter before the police opened the picket line was E. W. Phelps, plant manager. He was beaten yesterday when he arrived at the gate.

Meanwhile there was peaceful picketing at the other three packing houses, Armour, Wilson and Cudahy. An estimated 7,000 workers are affected by the strike, 1,800 of them at the Swift plant.

D. R. Flaherty, president of the Swift Independent Union, estimated about 10 per cent of the Swift workers appeared ready for work this morning, waiting for a court injunction against the rival CIO union.

Want ODT to Operate Lines

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—Thirteen senators wrote President Truman today urging that the Office of Defense Transportation be ordered to take over and operate midwestern truck lines tied up 60 days by a strike.

Observing that negotiations between the union and truck owners appeared to "have wholly failed," the senators suggested also that the president "use your good offices" to urge both sides to submit to arbitration or mediation.

"We cannot overemphasize the seriousness of the transportation situation in the midwest states nor the seriousness of the public detriment therefrom," said the letter, adding: "We believe that immediate exercise of your power as chief executive is imperative."

Among signers of the letter were Senators Briggs (D-Mo.), Donnell (R-Mo.), Capper (R-Kas.), and Reed (R-Kas.).

Three Wills Filed Today

Three wills were filed in the Pettis County Probate Court of Judge J. E. Smith today.

The will of Mrs. Mittie Arnest, who died January 13, 1946, was made December 14, 1944. Mrs. Carrie E. Hancock was appointed executrix. Deceased left her estate to her sister Mrs. Hancock and other relatives and friends.

The will of Mrs. Cora E. Zeigel, made October 9, 1944, who died January 8, 1944. Sammy Ppottier was appointed executor of the estate.

Mrs. Zeigel named her son Eugene Zeigel residuary legatee, and left her former husband and other children $1 each.

The will of Mrs. Elizabeth Dixon who died January 5, 1946, was filed. The will was made January 2, 1946 and she left her estate to her two nieces Mrs. Goldie Gray and Mrs. Lula Talley, the latter being named as executrix.

Report Bicycle Gone

Chester McCubbin, 1320 South Grand avenue, reported to the police this morning that sometime Wednesday night or early today a thief stole his bicycle out of the garage at his home.

OBITUARIES

WW. D. Clark

Mr. and Mrs. C. S. Woodard, 642 East Tenth street, have returned from Denver, Colo., where on Monday they attended the funeral of W. D. Clark, Mrs. Woodard's brother.

Mr. Clark, 57 years old, was on duty as a checking clerk for the Denver street railway system when a street car jumped the track, crashed the booth in which he was stationed, and killed him instantly.

Surviving besides his sister are his wife and two children of Denver.

Funeral of Mrs. Flora Grimm

Funeral services for Mrs. Flora Mae Grimm, 53 years old, who died at Nevada, Wednesday morning, will be held at the New Bethel church at 2:00 o'clock Friday afternoon.

The Rev. Ralph Emerson Hurd will officiate.

Friends who will serve as pallbearers will be Mike Donahoe, George Coffman, Leo Coffman, Vest Elliott, Robert Wadleigh, and Robert Frisbie.

Interment will be in the New Bethel cemetery beside the graves of her husband and daughter.

Mrs. Grimm is a sister of Mrs. S. M. Todd and Mrs. C. L. Wadleigh of Sedalia.

Walker M. Carver Service

Funeral services for Walker Monroe Carver, 60 years old, who died Monday at his home in Florence, Mo., were held at 2:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Bethlehem church, near Florence, with Rev. Hallie Rice, pastor of the East Sedalia Baptist church, officiating.

Mrs. A. B. Allen and Clyde Waters sang: "Sweet Peace," "In the Sweet Bye and Bye" and "Going Down the Valley One by One." Mrs. Clyde Waters was the accompanist.

Pallbearers were nephews of the deceased, Clyde and Dale Rehmer, Sam and Howard Hodge, Earl Baughman and Roscoe Carver.

Burial was in the Bethlehem cemetery.

Indicted, Charged With Extortion

ST. LOUIS, Jan. 17.—(P)—An indictment charging attempted extortion was returned by a federal grand jury yesterday against Grover C. Casey, 23, of Troy, Ala.

The indictment charges that Casey made two telephone calls from St. Louis to the Chicago home of James E. Degnan in an effort to obtain $500 for information concerning the whereabouts of Degnan's daughter, Suzanne, who was kidnapped and later found murdered.

Each of two counts in the indictment carries a maximum penalty upon conviction of $5,000 fine and 20 years imprisonment.

Secretary of Teachers Fund

JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—G. L. Donahoe, superintendent of school at El Dorado, Mo., has been elected executive secretary and administrator of the public school teacher retirement fund system, Roy Scantlin, superintendent of schools said today.

Donahoe, 36, will receive $5,000 a year and is the first person to fill the secretaryship of the retirement system, the plan having only been set up by the general assembly last July.

He is a graduate of the University of Missouri and the University of Iowa.

Enlists In Navy

Jack Meyers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emory L. Meyers, 421 East Eleventh street, who enlisted in the navy January 8, has passed his examinations at St. Louis and is now en route to San Diego, Calif., for boot training.

Cool off Then Plan Program

KANSAS CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—Roy A. Roberts, managing editor of the Kansas City Star, told members of the Chamber of Commerce last night that the present time is not right for permanent legislation dealing with industry and labor.

He said the immediate job is to reach reasonable settlements, get production flowing, and then, after it is seen what costs will be, deal fairly with management, labor, and the public.

"If labor's pressure groups all turn loose with demands," he said, "ruinous price rises cannot be avoided. And labor will suffer more than any one group."

Roberts suggested application of President Truman's proposed fact-finding legislation probably is necessary to break the present labor-management deadlock, and recommended that the nation "cool off" before undertaking a permanent program for industrial peace.

Divorce Petition Filed

A divorce petition was filed in circuit court today by Harry G. Shippis against Norman Charlene Shippis. The couple was married July 3, 1942 and separated on January 14, 1946.

General indignities were alleged. The plaintiff asks custody of their minor child.

Like to Stay With Baseball if Right Spot is Found

By Jack Hand
NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(P)—Bill Dickey's future is one of the big question marks in the camp of the New York Yankees whose roster lists 53 assorted athletes, including 21 pitchers.

Although the great catcher has been separated from the navy neither Manager Joe McCarthy, President Larry MacPhail nor Publicist Arthur Patterson profess to know what he plans to do. Dickey was quoted in Memphis yesterday as saying "I doubt if I'll do any more playing but I'd like to stay in baseball if I can find the right spot." That was still news in the swank New York offices in the Squibb building.

Not that the Yanks are short on catchers for their roster lists seven receivers but it goes without saying that none are to be mentioned in the same breath with the great Dickey, at least not yet. Aaron Robinson, who finished up the 1945 season at the stadium, Kenny Sears, an ex-sailor, and Gus Niarhos, who has yet to be graduated from the player list of Kansas City farm club, are among the leading youngsters.

Mike Garbark, Rollie Hemsley, Bill Drescher and Ken Silvestri also will be around to compete for the first string job but the front office remains very much interested in Mr. Dickey.

Return of Dickey, infielder Joe Bockman and Pitcher Charley Stanceu from the service clips the Yankee national defense list to only nine names. Still in service are Pitchers Tommy Byrne, Vince de Biasi, Al Lyons, Mel Queen, Jake Wade and Charley Wensloff, third sacker Bill Johnson and outfielders Johnny Lindell and Roy Weatherly.

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(P)—Charley Trippi, the Georgia half-back who apparently perfected the art of dodging tacklers by avoiding professional scouts, plans to attend summer school and earn as many credits as possible toward his degree in business education before he decides whether to return to college next fall. . . . His latest pro football offer is $15,000 and he's a good enough baseball player to have a flock of big league scouts on his trail.

Today's Guest Star

Guessing Game
Its pure speculation at this stage of the basketball season, but you can look for some fancy maneuvering for attractions when the time comes to name the teams for the NCAA and New York invitational tournaments. . . . Such teams as Arkansas, Kentucky, Wyoming and Oklahoma Aggies already have made a big impression on garden fans and may be in line for the NCAA tourney, too. . . . Holy Cross may also be in the middle of a bidding contest and Notre Dame, possibly the best of all, may be left out.

Sportspourri
The Pacific Coast league plans to produce its own baseball movie to offset major league "propaganda" now that the coast circuit wants to be a major in its own right. . . . Couple of correspondents point out that the 62,000 prep football crowd at Cleveland isn't a record. Chicago's Kelly bowl games regularly draw around 100,000 customers and attracted 104,000 for Bill de Correvont's final school game. . . . Chet Gladchuck, former Boston College and Giant griddler and lately assistant coach at the merchant Marine academy, has joined the naval ROTC physical fitness staff at Penn State.

THEY'RE THE TOPS

Spencer Tracy . . . he packed the house despite a weak play. Elliott Nugent . . . played soldier lead in "Voice of the Turtle."

This is the last of three stories on America's favorites of stage, screen and radio.

By JEAN GEORGE
NEA Staff Correspondent
NEW YORK — (NEA) — On Broadway this season, Spencer Tracy is tops. Elliott Nugent, Frank Fay and Gertrude Lawrence run him a sporting second, third and fourth. Charles Butterworth and Walter Abel are high on the stardom priority list, and Betty Fields is claiming rave notices.

These are the stars on Broadway despite a season of bad plays and flop reviews. Tracy is not only the highest paid star in the theater this season—about $3000 a week—but he has kept the seats and aisles packed despite the weakness of Robert Sherwood's latest play "The Rugged Path."

Tracy said that he was happy to be back on Broadway, although the joy was somewhat diminished by the quality of the play. However, he would like to come back again in another Sherwood play as he believes "the man is great and can do fine things." Tracy will return to Hollywood sometime in February.

Elliott Nugent, who had played the soldier lead in "Voice of the Turtle," earned about $3000 a week. Nugent plans to leave shortly for Hollywood. His place has been filled by filmhand's John Beal, who has taken over on a salary basis. The play, now in its second year, is still one of the real hits of the theatre.

Fay Likes "Harvey"
Frank Fay, the Elwood P. Dowd of the Pulitzer Prize play "Harvey," earns between $2500 and $3000 weekly for talking to his invisible friend Harvey, a white rabbit 6 feet 1 1/2 inches tall. Fay, who has had a long career in vaudeville and musical comedies, likes this play better than anything he has ever done, and is planning to stick with it for years.

Gertrude Lawrence, one of the few real theater people on Broadway now, has returned to the stage in "Pygmalion," a revival of Bernard Shaw's immortal comedy. Just back from a tour in Europe and the Pacific entertaining servicemen, Miss Lawrence has received renewed acclaim in this Broadway top show.

Although the English-born actress is making less in this show than in the majority of her appearances, she is particularly thrilled with her first role in a modern classic. She and Raymond Massey are starting a new venture, Theater Incorporated, for old and new plays of renown to be played by star casts.

Back after nine years, Walter Abel in "The Mermaids Singing" is making around $2000 a week in the amusing and touching comedy by John van Druten.

Betty Fields has been spiraling stardom with her recent performance in the "Voice of the Turtle" and now in Elmer Rice's new comedy, "Dream Girl."

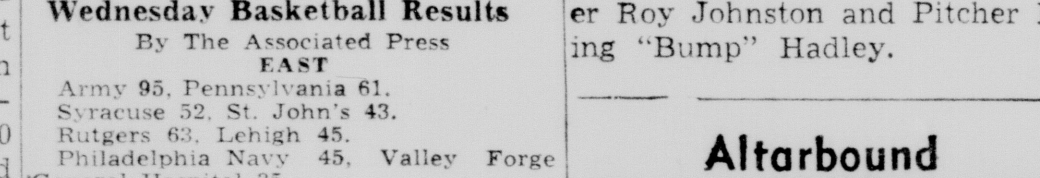

Hollywood Takes Stars
There are very few stars on Broadway who are not trotted off to Hollywood. For this reason producers are putting the emphasis on good productions that can be recast and still carry on. Stars are not the important factor today.

Shows like "On the Town," "Up in Central Park," "Oklahoma!" and "The Day Before Spring," need no stars. They weren't written for top names. Their popularity and attraction rest on the orchestrations, sets, costumes and scripts. Talented young people are brought into them, but the casts can be changed time and time again without harm to the finished product.

"Oklahoma!", which is the best example of this type of show, has changed its entire cast two or three times, and it is still doing top business on Broadway.

Frank Fay . . . $3000 a week for talking to invisible "Harvey."

Some Gave Their Lives Trying to do Their Job Well

By Hal Boyle

MANILA, Jan. 17.—(P)—During the battle for Tunisia a skinny little war correspondent weighing 112 pounds was called on the carpet by a chunky American headquarters general in Algiers.

"You're little better than a traitor to your country," the general said.

The small man's crime was that he had told fully the horrors of battle and their emotional impact on tired, dirty men who carry the brunt of war.

The brass hats who worry about such matters thought this slender, middle-aged writer was hurting American morale. They were wrong. He turned out to be one of the army's best morale builders.

That was Ernie Pyle, killed later covering his fifth campaign in the field.

It comes as something of a surprise now to read less than a year after Pyle went to his grave that Henry Louis Mencken, the oracle of Baltimore, believes correspondents were "a sorry lot" and did a poor job of covering World War II.

Mencken's ommment
(Eds. Note: Mencken said, however, that Pyle did a good job on the kind of task he set himself to do.)

Mencken, dean of American intelligentsia, soundly observes that it is "a primary duty of reporters to tell the truth until it becomes dangerous."

But in concluding that "there wasn't much of that" he is less than fair to a good number of able and conscientious newspapermen who lie buried in soldier cemeteries today because they never quit trying to be good reporters.

Mencken says of war correspondents generally that they were "either typewriter statesmen turning out dope stuff drearily dreamed up or sentimental human interest scribbles turning out maudlin stuff about the common soldier easy to get by the censors."

There were "typewriter statesmen" among the press corps. Some did write "maudlin stuff" about the common soldier, although Pyle was not one.

A Job Well Done
But both at headquarters and at the front there were many hard hitting newsmen who wore out their hearts or risked their lives living up to Mencken's own dictum that "good reporting is an effort to get the truth and tell it, no matter who gets hurt."

They fought capricious censorship throughout the war to give the American public as accurate and as complete a picture of what was going on as could be given within the limits of military security.

They wrote boldly, critically and fully. Not since William Howard Russell of the London Times stirred the world with his uncensored accounts of the Crimean battles has there been more honest war coverage.

A lot of it died under the army's blue pencil, but there was enough got through and it is possible to answer Mencken's complaint that he doesn't "even know yet what generals got licked" in the Battle of the Bulge.

Those of us who were there reported at the time that it was a German by the name of Karl Rudolf Gerd von Rundstedt.

Points May Decide Louis-Conn Fight

NEW YORK, Jan. 17.—(P)—Unless a knockout occurs, it may be that Eddie Egan's controversial point-scoring system may decide the winner of the Joe Louis-Billy Conn bout for the heavyweight championship at the Yankee stadium on June 19.

Eagan, chairman of the New York state athletic committee, inaugurated his four-point scoring system last March. Since then draw decisions have been eliminated, but followers of the sport have argued out the merits of the system.

Several weeks ago Eagan said he could see no reason for any change in the point-scoring system should the fight be held in New York.

Heiskell Life Publisher

Heiskell, who joined Life's editorial staff in 1937 as science editor, succeeds Larsen who had been Life's publisher, as well as president of Time, Inc., since its start nine years ago.

Cubs' Baseball School For ex-GIs Opens

LAKE WORTH, Fla., Jan. 17.—(P)—The Chicago Cubs' baseball school for returning GIs of their farm system opened yesterday with 34 players on hand. Before the camp breaks, Jack Sheehan, director of the Cubs' farm system, expects 75 to 100 men to be present.

The only major leaguer out yesterday was the Cubs' Al Gossop of Belleville, Ill. Bill Fleming, Cub pitcher, is expected at any time and Phil Cavaretta, the National league's top player and leading hitter last year, is to report Sunday.

To Teach Naval Science
COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 17.—(P)—A program will be started next month at the University of Missouri to enable students to earn a degree of bachelor of science in Naval Science, Frederick A. Middlebush, University president, announced yesterday.

He said 50 enlisted men in the naval R. O. T. C. as well as 200 civilian students will be permitted to enroll.

Approve Merit System Bill
JEFFERSON CITY, Jan. 17.—(P)—A bill to fulfill a requirement of the 1945 constitution that personnel of Missouri eleemosynary and penal institutions be hired under a merit system was passed by the house of representatives and sent to the senate.

Major provisions would give veterans or their widows rating preference in the examinations and job listings and would put the system on a bipartisan basis with half the employees chosen from each of the two major political parties.

HATED CO-WORKERS AND FRIENDS... CONSTIPATION THE ROOT OF HIS TROUBLE

Mr. Elmer Nelson, of Thrush Avenue, St. Louis, Mo., writes, "I was so miserable with stomach gas that I hated my co-workers not sharing my trouble. Then a fellow left a note on my bench telling me about Pru-lax. That really did the job. Down at the shop, they tell me it's a joy to work with me again."

Pru-lax is the laxative containing Cascara and Senna herbs that do a thorough but gentle job of flushing the bowels and go to work on sluggish livers and kidneys. People suffering gas pains, vertigo (dizziness), lack of pep and energy, feel like a million after just one bottle of Pru-lax. Caution: Use Pru-lax only as directed. HIGHER "TAKE HOME" PAY THAN WARTIME AVERAGE

...but the world's largest electrical plant has no workers

HALF-FINISHED washing machines*

HALF-FINISHED toasters*

HALF-FINISHED heaters*

HALF-FINISHED roasters*

The UERMWA (CIO) has taken General Electric workers out on strike.

Washing machines, refrigerators, heaters, a hundred things were on their way to you. But the strike stopped that.

It was expected to hire twice as many workers as before the war. But the strike stopped that.

Six new government plants were bought. Seven other new plants were being built. And land bought for three more. Increased production was planned in every existing works city.

We are sorry they decided a strike was the answer. The strike will pinch the public with shortages. And take a million dollars a day out of the pockets of General Electric workers.

G.E.'s PAY OFFER

Many of our workers, from what they tell us and write us, do not know that we offered the union an increase of 10¢ an hour for all those making less than $1.00 an hour, and 10% increase for those who make more.

With the offered increase and the overtime that will be necessary to meet consumer demand this year, the average employee would have had more "take home" pay than during the war.

THE STRIKE IS PUZZLING

Since 1935, average hourly earnings for men climbed over 51%. Over half of this was in the last five years.

There has been no real labor trouble at G. E. in 24 years.

We believe in collective bargaining. G. E. was one of the first large industrial companies to enter voluntarily into a company-wide contract with a national union.

A million-dollars-a-day pay loss will strike every G-E community. And the real tragedy is that employees can gain nothing that they could not have gained while still at work.

*Pictures taken between shifts before the strike represent the condition of our factories today.

Those making $2,000 to $3,000 in salary would receive 10% increases, and those receiving between $3,000 and $5,000 annually would receive increases of $300.

Television is Ready to Take First Major Strides in 1946

Although first models will be small screen, direct-view sets, projection-type receivers with standard broadcast and frequency modulation are scheduled to appear late in 1946. Image will be bright and clear enough to see in fully-lighted room.

By BURTON BENJAMIN

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Radio's bouncing baby brother, television, which has been moving with the faltering steps of industrial infancy, will take its first major strides in 1946.

Manufacturers have set a production goal of 300,000 sets for the year. This would give television a start toward mass coverage. There are today only 7,000 sets in the United States, 5,500 of them in the New York area.

Action is likely to be taken by the Federal Communications Commission on the more than 140 applications for television stations covering cities in 33 states. There are nine stations operating today.
The FCC also has designated 13 channels for commercial television which the Television Broadcasters Association states can accommodate 401 stations in the first 140 markets. There are 404 standard broadcast stations in these markets today.

Although the war took commercial television off the production line, wartime electronic research and development advanced the industry 20 years, the TBA believes.

4,000,000 Want Sets

Diagram shows how largescreen television works. Advance development model of this projection-type receiver, which provides high-definition pictures on built-in screen 21 1/2 x 16 inches, has been shown by RCA Victor.

strator of unknown make with a postcard-size screen for $100, there was an avalanche of buyers with cash—and no questions asked—although the models were not for sale. Surveys indicate that 4,000,000 families are ready to buy television receivers right now, most of them for $200 or more.

While everyone wants this new gimmick, few have the slightest conception of what they may be getting. To dispel a few popular illusions, here are some of the things you won't receive right away:

Unless you like in or near New York, Philadelphia, Schenectady-Albany, Washington or Los Angeles, your chances for television in '46 are pretty slim. Production of transmitters will start about the middle of the year with initial shipments some time after. It takes six months to install the average station so few new ones, if any, will get on the air before 1947.
To put transmitters in most of the big cities is a two or three year program.

A television network is two years away—perhaps more. Eventually coast-to-coast television will be made possible by coaxial cable, automatic, untended radio relay stations and perhaps stratovision.

It will be many years before a man in Chicago can watch the changing of the guard in London or a fire in Chungking.

Color television is coming but not in 1946. CBS has been pushing a high-frequency, mechanical color system. The majority of the industry, however, has expressed a desire to proceed with black and white on the lower frequencies that have been assigned and leave color for the laboratories at this time.

Smaller models will be produced first and the reception from them is likely to be something short of what you may expect. These sets, some of which will cost less than $200, will give direct-view television with screens 4 1/2 x 6 or 6 x 8 inches.

Mass Coverage in 1947

The image you will see will be less than four inches in height.
Watching 22 men cavort on a football field on a screen of this size, for example, is apt to cause considerable eyestrain. Receivers which feature pictures projected by lenses and mirrors on at least 15x20 inch screens will be available later in the year for about $500. They also will include frequency modulation and standard broadcast.

Despite the fact that television may be somewhat oversold in its present form, the future potentialities of the medium seem unlimited. Television's job for 1946 is production—both of sets and transmitters. By 1947 genuine mass coverage will begin.

The sooner stations can get on the air and manufacturers can get sets in homes, the more rapid will be the growth of television. It is a highly expensive proposition, and a network and sponsors are needed to help underwrite the cost. A network radio show, for example, may pay $10,000 for talent alone but given coast-to-coast coverage, this cost is reduced to perhaps a penny for every 10 listeners. Television demands scenery, costumes, makeup, lighting, long rehearsals and expensive personnel.

Allen B. Dumont Laboratories has estimated that a full service television station with a 25 kw. transmitter peak will require an initial capital investment of $272-500. On a 48-hour a week basis, the operating cost per year of this station is estimated at almost $315,000.

Technical advances have been extensive during the war and the major companies are pushing new developments. An improved version of the cathode ray tube, which in radar gives the movements of ships and planes, will be used in your home receiver.

The present range of a television station is about as far as you could see if you stood on top of its transmitting antenna. In the next few years, engineers will endeavor to increase this range and move ahead with a nation-wide network.

American Telephone and Telegraph plans to install 6,000 to 7,000 miles of coaxial cable within the next few years, most of it underground. This cable consists of six to eight copper tubes, each about the size of a lead pencil.
Along the axis of each tube runs a heavy copper wire held in place by discs of plastic material. Each copper tube with its present equipment can accommodate a television channel or 480 telephone channels.

Stratovision

A 225-mile New York to Washington coaxial link has just been completed. It will permit events in the capital to be piped to video transmitters in Philadelphia and New York for broadcast. The Army-Navy football game last year was carried from Philadelphia to New York by means of this cable.

Another method of long-range coverage is radio relay. Microwave radio is beamed across the country from tower to tower, each tower spaced about 35 miles apart.
It is possible the television networks will consist of interconnected coaxial cable and radio relay channels.

Westinghouse has received FCC permission to experiment with stratovision, which would increase television range by putting booster stations in planes. These planes would fly at 30,000 feet, thus greatly increasing the horizon of the transmitting antenna.
They would pick up signals and rebroadcast them.

On a network show originating in New York, the signal would be beamed from the ground transmitter to the plane overhead which would relay it over a 450-mile area. Its signal would not only cover this area but reach a plane in Pittsburgh which would pass it along. Engineers estimate that 14 of these planes could blanket the nation.

New stations will also be more powerful. General Electric has announced contracts to construct three 40,000 watt stations in New York, Chicago and Hollywood.

Seven More Suits On Union Electric

Seven cases involving damage suits against the Union Electric company of Missouri, a corporation, were filed Wednesday in the Pettis county circuit court on a change of venue from Benton county.

Twenty-five similar such cases have previously been on the Pettis circuit court docket.

Plaintiffs are Samuel Webb and Raymond Webb, asking for $3-490 in two separate suits; James
R. Tucker and Dorothy P. Tucker,
$7,612.10; R. J. Evans and Floraine Evans, $3,936.50; R. J. Evans and Floraine Evans and Kenneth

Bird-loving E. A. McIlhenny, Avery Island, La., in 1892 placed eight young snowy egrets inside a large 50-foot-square cage containing trees and water, and fed them until the following autumn, when the cage was removed. The birds disappeared, only to return the following spring to nest. From two nests that season, the colony grew into a large wildlife refuge known

The wedding of Miss Virginia Louise Scruton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Henry Scruton, Jr., 712 West Third street, and Capt. Charles Verner Knight, of Indianapolis, Ind., will be solemnized at 8 o'clock Saturday night at the Fifth Street Methodist church, with Dr. H. U. Campbell reading the service.

Miss Scruton's sister Miss Maurine Scruton, will be her maid of honor, and Capt. George R. Glass of Miami, Fla., will attend Capt. Knight as best man.

A reception at the Sedalia Country club will follow the ceremony.

The January meeting of the Rebekah Home club No. 125, was held at the home of Mrs. Alva Schilo, 2305 East Twelfth street, with Mrs. Viola Hutchinson as the assisting hostess.

A covered dish luncheon was served at the noon hour with seventeen members present.

Mrs. C. O. Goodknight, president, opened the meeting with the Lord's Prayer and the club voted to send to shut-in members the Triple Link, Rebekah newspaper.

Mrs. H. H. Weldberg of Sioux City, Iowa, daughter of Mrs. Fred Anton, Sr., 710 East Tenth street, was a special guest.

The February meeting will be at the home of Mrs. J. H. Brooks, 1525 South Prospect avenue.

Mrs. V. B. Coale gave a party in celebration of the third birthday anniversary of her daughter, Carol Jean, last Thursday afternoon at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Drinkwater, west of Knob Noster.

Games were played, after which ice cream and cake were served the following guests: Linda Drinkwater of Warrensburg, Alice Pearl Zink, Judy Wimer, Vaughn Coale, Jr., Mrs. Grover Drinkwater of Warrensburg, Mrs. Earl Turner, Mrs. O'Bannon Marshall and Doris Drinkwater.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Jones gave a dinner at their home northeast of Knob Noster Sunday honoring their daughter, Miss Christina Jones, who recently returned from Mount Vernon sanatorium, and their son, Eldon Jones, who lately received his army discharge.

Others present were: Mr. and Mrs. J. Walter Scott of Warrensburg, Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Weeks and son, Alan, of Kansas City, Mr. and Mrs. Butler Foster and children, Melvin and Hester, John Hunter and W. C. Jones.

Dinner guests Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Frandstaff and family, of north Knob Noster, were the following:

Mr. and Mrs. Don Zink and children, Greta, Anna Lou and Jesse, of southeast of Warrensburg; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Yancey and children, Betty, Forrest Gene, and Charles Marion, of near Pittsville; Mrs. Myrtle Fuller and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Funk and daughter, Judy of Knob Noster.

Mrs. E. W. Shelby, 514 South Summit avenue, entertained Tuesday afternoon with a party in honor of the second birthday anniversary of her little son, Thomas Mark.

The children played during the afternoon after which a ping and white birthday cake, with two pink candles and "Happy Birthday, Mark," was served with other refreshments to the guests. Favors were miniature glass cars filled with candy.

Guests were Mrs. V. L. Corson and daughter, Gay; Mrs. Jack Pasley, and daughters, Joan and Linda Sue; Mrs. L. N. Bricken and daughter, Nolene; Mrs. Raymond Dowling and daughter Carol; Mrs. Palmer Nichols and son, Nicky; Mrs. Charles Hurt and daughter, Charla Ann; Mrs. Roy Dawson and son, Michael; Mrs.

Richard Hill and son, Rickie, Mrs. R. F. Saunders, Mrs. E. T. Martin and Mrs. H. E. French.

The young guest of honor received many nice gifts

Mrs. W. F. Keyser, 1004 West Fourth street, was hostess of a tea Wednesday afternoon from 3 until 6 o'clock at her home in honor of Mrs. James McNeil, the former Virginia Wilkerson.

Twenty guests, close friends of the honoree, called during the tea hours.

Mrs. McNeil's mother, Mrs. George R. Wilkerson, and Mrs. Charles A. McNeil, assisted in receiving the guests.

The marriage of Miss Irene Carolyn Fischer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Fischer of Stover, and Herb Uffring took place at 6 o'clock Friday evening at St. Paul's Lutheran church in Stover, with the Rev. J. C. Schedler officiating in the presence of relatives and friends.

The wedding march was played by Prof. E. Deickhoff. The bride wore an aque-blue wool dress with a corsage of pink rosebuds. The matron of honor, Mrs. Melvin Fischer, wore a dress of pink crepe dress with a corsage of rosebuds.

Mr. Uffring's attendant was Melvin Fischer.

A wedding dinner was served at the home of the bride's parents. Mrs. Uffring, the former Miss Fischer, was employed for several years in Peoria, Ill., where she met her husband before he left for military service. She later returned to Missouri and was employed at the Tweedie Footwear company at Versailles for the last two years.

The bridegroom, who was a technical sergeant, was in service three years, 18 months of that time on duty in Europe. He had 179 days in combat, and was with the Third Army engineers. He was discharged at Camp Grant, Ill., December 27.

Mr. and Mrs. Uffring will reside in Peoria, Ill.

Church News

Mrs. W. A. Green's circle of the Epworth Methodist church met today to sew and prepare clothes for the Victory Clothing Drive, now underway.

Last week the members of the circle met at the home of Mrs. J. F. Kirkhart, 800 West Thirtieth street with Mrs. Kirkhart and Mrs. V. C. Richardson, hostesses. There was one special guest, Mrs. Messenger. Mrs. J. E. McCarthy gave a talk.

Georgetown Methodist Sunday school held its regular weekly meeting Sunday with an attendance of 38 persons.

The superintendent, Russel Meredith, and the teachers, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Dow, Mrs. Leslie Campbell, Mrs. Burk and Mrs. Charles McVain, were all present. Regular preaching services are held on the First Sunday morning and the third Sunday night of each month.

The Ladies Aid society of Broadway Presbyterian church will meet in all-day session Friday with lunch to be served at 12:15 p. m.

Truman Plan Given In Dispute

Offers It In An Endeavor To Avert Strike Of Steel Workers

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—President Truman wants labor and management's decision by noon Friday on his proposal for settling the steel wage dispute. It was indicated by one source close to the negotiations, who could not be identified, that the President had suggested a pay boost of 18½ cents an hour for the 800,000 CIO-steelworkers poised to strike Monday.

Those close to the situation tonight expressed belief the union, through its president, Philip Murray, would accept.

The corporation's decision was still a matter for conjecture.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—President Truman today offered a plan to avert a nation-wide steel strike after prolonged White House negotiations between the CIO and U. S. Steel failed to settle the wage dispute.

The President's proposal for settlement was taken under advisement by Philip Murray, president of the CIO and the United Steel Workers, and Benjamin F. Fairless, president of the Steel Corporation, with a promise to report their answer to Mr. Truman by tomorrow noon.

What the chief executive proposed was not made public immediately. If it was a dollars and cents compromise splitting the difference between the company offer and the union demand, however, it would call for a general wage increase of 17½ cents an hour.

One report circulating tonight was that the President had named a somewhat higher figure. Asked for comment on a suggestion that it was 18½ cents, an official in close touch with the negotiations said that was "not far off." He would not be more definite.

The company has offered 15 cents and the union has asked 19½ cents.

Some Variance Evident
There was a possibility that the President's proposal included some provision for a steel price increase. Reconversion Director John W. Snyder, who sat in on the conferences, has been represented as ready to approve an increase of $4 a ton, but Chester Bowles, OPA administrator, who conferred with the President yesterday, reportedly was unwilling to sanction a rise of more than $2.50.

The Murray-Fairless negotiations ended after more than eight hours of discussions at the White House yesterday afternoon, last night and this afternoon. These followed an initial White House session last Saturday.

Charles G. Ross, the president's secretary, gave the following statement to waiting newsmen:
"Mr. Murray and Mr. Fairless came back at 2 p. m. to resume negotiations. At 4 p. m. they were asked to come into the President's office and did."

"They reported they were still in disagreement, whereupon the President, as he said he would do last night in that event, made a proposal."

"They promised to take it under advisement and discuss it with their respective organizations. Mr. Fairless with his board of directors and Mr. Murray with his associates, and report their answer to the President by noon tomorrow."

Murray In 'Ill Humor'
Ross said that he could not divulge a "word about the proposal" which the President had made.
Fairless and Murray left the White House by different exits. Murray told a reporter he was "not coming back."

The CIO chief, who appeared to be in an ill humor, did not explain whether he felt that meant that he was not coming back today or that the White House discussions were definitely finished.

He has postponed the threatened strike of 800,000 steelworkers, which could cripple reconversion, until 12:01 a. m. on Monday at the President's request pending the negotiations. It was originally set for last Monday, and last week-end saw some stoppage of steel production as a consequence.

Youth Started String Of Fires

PORTLAND, Ore., Jan. 17.—(P)—A 17-year-old youth confessed setting a string of blazes which cost nearly $200,000 in Vanport city because he "has red hair like fire and likes to see fire," officials said today.

Deputy sheriffs said the red-headed youth signed a confession saying he started a $140,000 blaze in the shopping center last month, and a $40,000 fire in a school building Jan. 6.

Deputy Sheriff Dave McMillan asked why the boy wanted to set fires.

He answered, McMillan said, that he has red hair "like fire" and "I like to see fire."

M. P. to Build Frog, Switch Factory Here

Additional Men To Be Brought Here For Skilled Work

The Missouri Pacific Lines will build a frog and switch factory, on the company's shop grounds, in Sedalia, according to announcement made Thursday. The building, 80 by 200 feet, will be of steel and masonry, and bids for its construction will be taken immediately. All frogs and switches for the entire system will then be made in Sedalia, which means that at least thirty technical men and high class mechanics will be brought to the city for employment in the plant.

An addition, 75 by 100 feet, will be made to the reclamation plant, which also means an additional number of employees will come to Sedalia for this department.

New Electrical Shop
Recently completed is a building to house the electrical shop, wherein all electric work for the entire system will be done. Ten additional electricians have been added.

Another building recently enlarged is the locomotive shops made necessary because all large locomotives on the entire system will be brought here for repairs. No other shop on the system is large enough to take care of the work on the large, new, modern engines turned out the past three years.

Review Club's Achievements

The Sedalia Kiwanis program Thursday noon in Bothwell Hotel was devoted to a review of the club's achievements during 1945 under the Presidency of Clyde Heynen. The achievement report was outlined by Past President Harry Brunkhorst as it will be submitted to Kiwanis International.

Clarence Evans presided as program chairman.

Bert Hathaway became a new member and was introduced and given the induction ceremonies by his father-in-law, the Rev. H. U. Campbell after which Job Harnden presented the new member a club lapel button.

Guests were: E. E. Hermann with L. W. Satorius, Lloyd Satterwhite with the Rev. W. C. Bessmer, Major Melvin Dolgoff with Joe Iosenthal, and Kiwanian Max P. Shelton, St. Louis.

At the conclusion of the meeting Clyde Heynen was called to the speaker's table where Mr. Brunkhorst presented him with a Past President's lapel button. Mr. Heynen is immediate past president, having been succeeded by the Rev. Fr. Brunswick.

Murray Calls Strategy Group

DETROIT, Jan. 17.—(P)—The CIO United Auto Workers' six-man strategy committee, which is directing the union's strike against General Motors Corporation, was summoned to Washington tonight by CIO President Philip Murray in a surprise move.

UAW spokesmen said the summons arrived here late today shortly after announcement at Washington that negotiations between the CIO and United States Steel Corporation had failed to produce a settlement of the wage dispute.

The Detroit unionists professed ignorance of the nature of the unexpected parley as their offices hurriedly attempted to make plane reservations for the delegation.

UAW President R. J. Thomas headed the group, but Walter P. Reuther, UAW vice president and director of the union's GM division was unable to make the trip because of an eye infection.

T. A. Johnston, assistant director of the union's GM section, replaced him.

Congress Is Given Warning

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—Congress received from Gen. Douglas MacArthur today a warning that any attempt to cut Pacific forces below the 400,000 strength contemplated by July 1 would "weaken to a dangerous degree" military controls over Japan and Korea.

A cable from the supreme Allied commander in the Pacific, containing this warning, was laid before a senate committee by Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, army chief of staff.

Eisenhower appeared before the special senate military sub-committee to explain further the army's demobilization policies which he had outlined to an informal session of representatives and senators on Tuesday.

Eisenhower told the committee the telegram from MacArthur had come in code and for this reason his exact words were rearranged. MacArthur reported there were 1,168,000 soldiers under his command in December, that this will be reduced to 660,000 by Jan. 20 and then gradually cut to 400,000 on July 1. This would include the 200,000 in Japan and Korea.

Quotes Eisenhower
Committee Chairman Edwin C. Johnson (Democrat-Colo.) interjected that Eisenhower had told the meeting Tuesday that army forces in the Pacific theater would be cut to 375,000 by July 1, or 25,000 less than MacArthur's estimate.

Eisenhower said this represented an adjustment in air force totals, adding that MacArthur's command covered all troops for Japan, Korea, the Philippines, the Marianas and Hawaii.

The MacArthur message gave assurance that his command would follow Eisenhower's new order for return of men with 45 points or 30 months service by April 30, and of those with 40 points and 24 months by June 30.

Operations Hindered
Loss of key men, MacArthur added, already has hindered such operations as signal communications.

In outlining additional demobilization steps, Eisenhower told the committee he had:

Ordered a halt to all mass demonstrations by soldiers against demobilization delays.

Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D-Colo.) urging "the irreducible minimum" in army strength, said he thought it could get along July 1 with a million men. This compares with 931,422 in the ranks on the same date in 1919.

The army has been planning for 1,500,000 men by July, but Johnson told reporters he considers that figure about 500,000 too high. Eisenhower informed congress Tuesday that the army's strength on January 1 was 4,200,000, compared with the V-E day peak of 8,300,000.

Evidently Eisenhower's lengthy report to an informal joint session of congress Tuesday failed to touch on some matters still troubling the lawmakers, for the special senate military sub-committee on demobilization program. He scheduled a radio address to the nation on the subject for Friday night (8 p. m. CST).

Johnson's proposal for a post-war army close to the 1919 size ran counter to Eisenhower's statement Tuesday. The general said then that the war department was taking a big chance in lowering army strength to 1,500,000.

However, the sub-committee of which Johnson is chairman entertained hopes of selling the chief of staff some different ideas both on the army's size and demobilization.

Fire Companies Called

The fire companies were called Thursday afternoon at 12:29 o'clock to the home of Louis Rumsey, 1836 East Seventh street, to extinguish flames caused from a defective flue. No damage was reported.

American Soldiers Would Wed Austrian Girls

VIENNA, Jan. 17.—(P)—Approximately 300 American soldiers in Austria have applied to marry Austrian girls or displaced persons since the ban on such marriage was lifted by U. S. Army headquarters Jan. 2. About half the prospective brides are displaced Czechs, Poles and Yugoslavs.

Row In Pearl Harbor Inquiry

Came Over A Suggestion For Call To Churchill

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—A proposal that former Prime Minister Churchill be asked to testify about his conversations with the late President Roosevelt threw the Pearl Harbor committee into a stormy row today.

It came from Senator Ferguson (R-Mich.) after the committee had heard Admiral Husband E. Kimmel say that five admirals of his former Pacific fleet staff backed his view that Washington was largely to blame for the Dec. 7, 1941, disaster.

Kimmel said these five had seen and approved his statement that Washington withheld from him information, obtained from decoded Japanese messages, pointing to the time and place of Japan's attack.

After Kimmel was excused from the witness chair for the day, the committee held a brief open session to receive certain exhibits prepared by its counsel. It was then that Ferguson proposed that Churchill be asked to testify about the Atlantic Charter conference. It was this meeting of President Roosevelt and the then British Prime Minister at sea in August, 1941, which produced their "Atlantic Charter."

Reaction Heated
Reaction among the Democratic members was immediate and violent.

Rep. Murphy (D-Pa.) shouted that it was "not fair to a great citizen of the world" who had come to this country seeking rest. Churchill is relaxing in Florida. "It's just a play for the press," snorted Senator Lucas (D-Ill.), adding that it is "just another fishing expedition."

Senator Brewster (R-Maine) interrupted with an expression of regret that Lucas was failing to couch his remarks in "parliamentary language."

"I don't care what you regret," snapped the Illinois senator.

Ferguson said Churchill should be asked about an agreement he and President Roosevelt reached at the Atlantic conference that Britain and the United States would take "parallel action" in warning Japan against further aggression.

Vice Chairman Cooper (D-Tenn.), who was presiding, finally ended the discussion with a suggestion that the committee should have a closed session soon to thrash out all such questions.

When Kimmel said the five admirals backed his statement, Seth Richardson, committee counsel, immediately announced that he would call all as witnesses.

Kimmel, Pacific Fleet commander when the Japanese attacked, said the men who had seen and approved his account as a "fair statement" of "what we thought and did" were:

Vice Admiral William W. Smith, Kimmel's former chief of staff.
Vice Admiral William S. Pye, then commander of fleet task force one.

Rear Admiral W. S. Delaney, then fleet operations officer.
Rear Admiral V. R. Murphy, then assistant war plans officer for the fleet, and

Start Today On Roosevelt Dime

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—The treasury announced today that the mint will begin making the Franklin D. Roosevelt dime tomorrow with the new coin to be put into circulation Feb. 5.

The coin, will bear a portrait of the late president on one side, on the other will appear the torch of liberty with the olive branch of peace on its left and the oak branch signifying strength and independence on the right.

Postal Group Has Election

Talk Over Plan To Include County In Organization

Officers of the Post Office Employees association for 1946 were elected Wednesday night at a meeting held at Woodman-Macabee hall. Forty persons were in attendance.

The new president is William Prowell, and other officers are Robert Scott, recently returned from service, vice president; Mrs. A. C. Bell, reelected secretary; Everett Kemp, reelected treasurer; E. E. Hammond, sergeant-at-arms, and Mrs. Linden Lee Jones, reelected reporter.

A discussion on the possibilities of enlarging the association to include all postal employees of the county, a county-wide group to be an affiliate of the Allied Postal Council, was held and a committee appointed to investigate and formulate plans. On the committee are Fred Brummett, chairman, Edward P. Mullaley, postmaster, Charles Weinrich and A. C. Bell.

Welcome Returned Veteran
A welcome was extended to Brummett, a carrier, who recently returned from military service.

After the business session games were played with Chester Kirkpatrick in charge.

The "Happy Birthday" song was sung to Bill Joe Brummett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brummett, who observed his eighth birthday anniversary Wednesday.

Hosts for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Plumlee and Chester Kirkpatrick.

New Clue In Child Slaying

CHICAGO, Jan. 17.—(P)—A handkerchief found near a wire noose believed by police to have been used in strangling Suzanne Degnan furnished detectives with a possible new clue tonight in their search for the kidnap slayer.

Letters and numbers, presumably laundry marks on the handkerchief, led to questioning of several persons. The handkerchief and noose were under a stairway leading to a laundry room of a basement on Winthrop avenue, in the north side neighborhood where the six year old child lived.

On the stairs at the rear of the same apartment building, a block and a half from the Degnan home, detectives found several wisps of blonde hair matching the locks of the child, parts of whose dismembered body were found Jan. 7.

Detective Adolph Valanis said the hair found on the stair board established that the child was carried to that spot.

Citizens Reminded Of Clothing Drive

The committee in charge of the Clothing Collection for people in war stricken areas ask that those who have garments take them to their nearest collection center either today or Friday, as they plan to pack for shipping Friday night.

Renew Effort To Settle Meat Strike

Conferees Will Met Again In Capital Today

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—Secretary of Labor Schwellenbach, seeking to settle the meat strike, conferred jointly and separately with the disputants today and asked them to return for further meetings tomorrow morning.

The conference, which federal officials had hoped earlier might produce an agreement in the two-day-old strike, developed instead into "exploratory sessions."

Both AFL and CIO representatives reported afterward that nothing new had developed and that Schwellenbach appeared to be seeking information. They said the secretary had not asked a return to work while government fact-finding proceeds.

Schwellenbach appointed a three-man fact-finding board this afternoon to investigate the wage dispute and report in 30 days.

The big five meat packing companies—Swift, Armour, Cudahy, Wilson and Morrel—apparently joined in informing Schwellenbach that they would be unable to grant the unions' wage demands without a price increase. All agreed, however, to cooperate with the fact-finders.

Trio Of Fact Finders

The fact-finders are Edwin Witte, chairman, former public member of the War Labor Board and head of its Detroit regional board; Clark Kerr, chairman of the WLB meat-packing commission, and Chief Justice Raymond W. Starr of the Michigan supreme court.

The conferences got off to a quarrelsome start when the CIO and AFL representatives objected to the presence of an unaffiliated union.

Patrick E. Gorman, general secretary of the AFL Meatcutters and Butchers Workmen, told Schwellenbach that officials of the National Brotherhood of Packinghouse Workers had no right to attend.

Gorman said members of the Brotherhood are not on strike.

Don Mahon, president of the Brotherhood, said his organization represents 50,000 packinghouse workers and plans to file a 30-day strike notice if Schwellenbach fails to reconcile the wage dispute.

Mahon said later that he would be present when the conferences resume tomorrow. He presented his side of the picture to Schwellenbach after the CIO and AFL had finished their meetings.

Meanwhile Rep. Jenkins of Ohio, chairman of the Republican congressional food study committee, blamed the OPA for the strike.

Fir Price Adjustment
"Both management and labor know that the single point at issue is an adjustment of meat prices so that the industry can afford to pay its employees higher wages," Jenkins told the house.

"The price of all meat products is rigidly controlled by OPA and is held down virtually to the 1939 level. The responsibility for this situation and the responsibility for correcting it is squarely up to the government."

The CIO United Packinghouse Workers, claiming 193,000 members on strike, held out for a general wage increase of 17½ cents an hour immediately to be followed by negotiations on demands for an additional 7½ cents.

The AFL Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butchers Workmen, representing 70,000 strikers, has agreed to settle for a 15-cent hike. It urged the CIO union to do likewise but received no reply.

Both of these stands represented a scaling-down of the unions' original demands for a 25-cent rise.

The packinghouses, however, offered no more than a 10-cent increase. Earl W. Jimerson, president of the AFL union, said this was "very inadequate."

The unions also failed to get together on the strike itself in Los Angeles. There the CIO struck the four major packers who handle 35 to 40 per cent of the meat supply. But the AFL union announced that its members in 26 independent packinghouses will work longer hours to increase production in what is called an "emergency."

Baby Fatally Burned; Mother Seriously

LAREDO, Mo., Jan. 17.—(P)—A two-months-old child was burned to death and her mother seriously injured yesterday following the explosion of an oil stove in the kitchen of their home.

Mrs. Claude Kelsall, the mother, was taken to a hospital in Trenton, Mo.

Reconciliation For Natalies

RENO, Nev., Jan. 17.—(P)—Mrs. Frieda Natalie, 19, said tonight she had affected a reconciliation with her husband, Adam 22, in a telephone call to him in Chicago, her original destination when she disappeared two weeks ago.

Deputy Sheriff E. E. Gily reported her discovery here early to day after a grocer had recognized her in an Associated Press picture printed in the Reno Gazette.

Mrs. Natalie vanished Jan. 2 and her baggage was found in a Kansas City checkroom.

Security Body Of The UNO Is Organized

Eleven-Nation Council Task To Preserve Peace

By JOHN A. PARRIS

LONDON, Jan. 17.—(P)—The United Nations Security Council—proposed as the custodian of atom bomb factories and all the other arms plants in the world—was formally organized today for its task of preserving the peace, using force if necessary.

The 11-nation council was constituted around a "good luck" horseshoe table in Church House, Westminster, and members declared at the historic opening session that upon the council primarily rested the world's hope of lasting peace.

Near the table sat Iranian delegate Nasrulla Entezam, whose country may appeal to the council as early as tomorrow for aid in settling its dispute with Soviet Russia over political conditions in northern Iran.

Want Global Control
Earlier to cheering general assembly delegates in Central Hall, Foreign Minister Jan Masaryk of Czechoslovakia, one of Europe's great arms producing countries, called for United Nations global control of armament industries, including atomic bomb factories.

"War should be stopped by controlling all means to war," Masaryk said. To safeguard humanity, he added, international controls should be set up for "the latest devastating inventions."

Delegates applauded as Masaryk expressed the hope that "not one particle of uranium produced in Czechoslovakia will ever be used for wholesale destruction and annihilation."

The second week in the life of the new world peace organization opened with an announcement by British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin that his country was negotiating to place three of her five League of Nations mandates under the projected United Nations trusteeship system. They are Tanganyika, Cameroons and Togoland, all in Africa.

Withhold On Palestine
But Palestine, Bevin added, was being withheld pending results of a British-American inquiry into the Jewish-Arab issue. Trans-Jordan was excluded because it eventually will be made independent, he said.

Bevin's statement was the first concrete move by any nation to start UNO trusteeship working. At least three countries must agree to turn over their mandates before the UNO trusteeship council can be constituted.

Belgian officials said they soon would announce similar intentions for their two mandates in the Belgian Congo, Ruanda and Urundi, formerly in German East Africa. South African delegate Heaton Nicholls, however, told the assembly his country was reserving its position on the future of its mandate over southwest Africa.

South African delegates have said privately that the sparsely populated former German colony wanted to be incorporated into the Union of South Africa.

Speeches At Inaugural
The one-hour inaugural session of the Security Council included brief speeches by each of the 11 members. It was convened during a recess between plenary sessions.

The council was "duly constituted" by J. N. O. Makin, chief Australian delegate and provisional council president.

Body Of Commander Hall Found By Fishermen

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—The body of Cmdr. Frederick B. Hall, 35, of St. Louis, Mo., victim of a plane crash in the Potomac river last Nov. 12, was found by fishermen yesterday near the Indian Head naval powder factory.

His was the third body recovered. That of Lt. Cmdr. David F. Leavitt, 48, who lived here with Hall, is still missing. Two other naval officers aboard the plane, a man and a woman, parachuted into the river and were saved.

Filibuster Breaks On FEPC Bill

Surprise Motion Is Adopted To Take It Up In The Senate

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17.—(P)—A full-fledged filibuster of unforeseeable duration broke out in the senate today following the adoption of a surprise motion to take up the controversy-packed FEPC bill.

These were some of the results:

1. All other legislation was hobbled.

2. Senator Walter George, of Georgia asserted that "free men" on the Democratic side of the aisle would refuse to follow the administration in the matter.

3. Senator Eastland (D-Miss)—starting to talk for "two years if necessary,"—questioned whether President Truman is "competent" to handle his job if he "has the idea this is the most important bill to take up at this time."

The measure, which has been endorsed repeatedly by Mr. Truman, would establish a permanent employment practice commission to police industry, labor unions and the government against discriminations on account of race, color or creed.

"New Subject Matter"

Senator Overton (D-La) predicted without elaboration that the FEPC bill itself would not be discussed "tomorrow—or tomorrow—tomorrow." He forecast that some "entirely new subject matter" would be on tap when the senate meets again.

The bill cannot be displaced by a minority, but the discussions of the speakers do not have to have any particular connection with the matter at hand.

Under the parliamentary situation, the FEPC bill is due to come up again tomorrow after the expiration of the "morning hour"—no later than 2 p. m. Meanwhile Eastland is expected to take advantage of the general business period just after the senate convenes to call for a vote on his motion to discharge the labor committee from further consideration of the fact-finding bill for labor disputes. But the labor bill itself will have to wait on the FEPC matter.

Senator Chavez (D-NM) had served notice before Christmas that he intended to call up the measure. A similar bill now is tied up in the house rules committee.

Declares Motion Stands

When Chavez actually made the motion, less than a third of the senators were present. Senator Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip, jumped to his feet to observe that it was his understanding that the New Mexico senator intended to discuss the bill today, but that he would delay his motion until later.

"The senator is mistaken," Chavez replied coldly "the motion stands."

Senator LaFollette (Prog-Wise)

Harvey D. Dow First To File For State Office

The beginning of 1946 has found considerable talk on politics—both Democratic and Republican—but nothing definite as to who will be or who will not be a candidate in the city and county elections. In the national setup United States Senator Frank Briggs has definitely filed his declaration as a Democratic candidate for the nomination and the Republicans have William McKinley Thomas, St. Louis who aspires for that party nomination.

In Pettis county only one filing has been made with County Clerk James Green for either a state or county office and that is Harvey D. Dow, who seeks the Republican nomination for state representative. Dow is the present representative of Pettis county in the state legislature.

City Election First

City politics will grab off the limelight in election talk in Sedalia as it is the "big year" for city electoral offices. The following offices are to be filled: Mayor, a four year term; Chief of Police, two-year term as are the other following city offices: Collector, Treasurer, Assessor, Attorney, Police Magistrate and four Councilmen one from the first ward, second ward, third ward, and fourth ward.

Most talk at present centers around the Mayor's office and the present Mayor A. H. Wilks, has given every indication that he will seek the nomination on the Republican ticket for re-election.

County Election

County politics will "warm up" as soon as the city election is over on April 2. It is doubtful if many filings will be made for county nominations, which are subject to the primary election in August, until the city "fight" has ended. The city campaign will be a barometer for this election year.

County offices up for election are: Circuit Judge, which is at present held by Judge Dimmitt Hoffman, holder of the office for several terms and who had no opposition in the last campaign; The judgeships of the County Court, Presiding Judge which is a four-year term, Judge of the Eastern district and Judge of the Western district which are two-year terms; Prosecuting Attorney also a two-year term office; the following are all four year terms, County Clerk, County Treasurer, County Collector, County Recorder, Circuit Clerk, and Probate Judge.

Winnie The Book Worm Says-

Ho hum! Am I sleepy? I was up half the night figuring out the puzzle in the Children's Room. I'll tell you it was a book character party. Guess I'll have to join old Rip Van Winkle and take a nap.

Of course it's all right with me if you want to pass up some good books because they don't have library covers. You'd never know what good eating I've found between some covers—sort of a Dog-wood sandwich sometimes.

If you promise not to tell this secret (except to your best friend) I'll tell you we have three new mysteries. Better put on your hip boots and come get them.

It seems to me if all of the new books are going to get read around here, I'll have to start eating. It will be just like having Christmas all over again.

I don't suppose Johnny knew I had one ear open when he said, "I suppose you just put the numbers on the backs of these books for the fun of it." Won't he change his mind though when he comes with his class for a library visit?

It was along about midnight when I was all curled up on "Grandfather's chair" for a snooze that I heard a couple book-ends say, "If I didn't have to hold up these books for reports, I know some eighth and ninth graders who wouldn't have to choose the skinny titles at the last minute."

a Guess I'll be pretty busy these next few weeks finding new stories for the story hour fans. Yes, sir, they deserve the best, and I'll be the best they shall have.

If you see "Lassie Come-Home" anywhere about, you might tell her I'd like to show her around the Children's room. Two new copies recently stayed in long enough to say ahello last week.

When you have time, come cdown and meet my new book friend, "Stocky, Boy of West pTexas." He will tell you all about his adventures as a cowboy. If aI'm not mistaken, you will want cto take him in your house for a longer visit.

I suppose only your best pal would tell you, but you will be mighty sorry if you don't have a library card.

I Guess it's time for me to hunt up "Grandfather's chair" and take a rest. I'm still tired from working that puzzle. Perhaps I'll take time out to chat with you again sometime.

Your Pal,
Winnie the book worm.

Robert Alpert Has Received Two Citations

Served In Marine Corps Since September, 1942

First Lieutenant Robert Alpert, United States Marine Corps Reserve, son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Alpert, 506 West Fourth street, has arrived in Sedalia and is now on terminal leave. His leave will expire March 4.

Lieut. Alpert has been in the Marine Corps since September 1942 and served overseas in the Pacific theater of war for two years. He arrived back in the United States in September 1945 and since that time was stationed at San Francisco, Calif.

He was one of five sons of Mr. and Mrs. Alpert in the service during World War II. Three brothers Lieut. Paul Alpert, Sergeant Jack Alpert, Sergeant Joe Alpert have already been discharged from the service. Corporal Harry Alpert is stationed in North Carolina and is expected to be discharged soon.

Lieut. Alpert received two letters of Commendation and Citations:—

Citation

"Commendation For First Lieutenant Robert Alpert United States Marine Corps Reserve.

"For service set forth in the following:—

"Citation

"For excellent performance of duties in connection with operation against the enemy on Saipan and Tinian, Marianas Islands, from 15 June to 1 August, 1944. First Lieutenant Alpert served with battalion that landed in the assault against both islands and exhibited cool conduct and great courage under fire. His conduct throughout was in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service.

"C. B. Bates, "Major General, United States Marines Corps, "Commanding Fourth Marine Division."

"Commendation The Commanding General, Fleet Marine Forces, Pacific, takes pleasure in Commending First Lieutenant Robert Alpert, U. S. Marine Corps, Reserve.

"For service as set forth in the following citation.

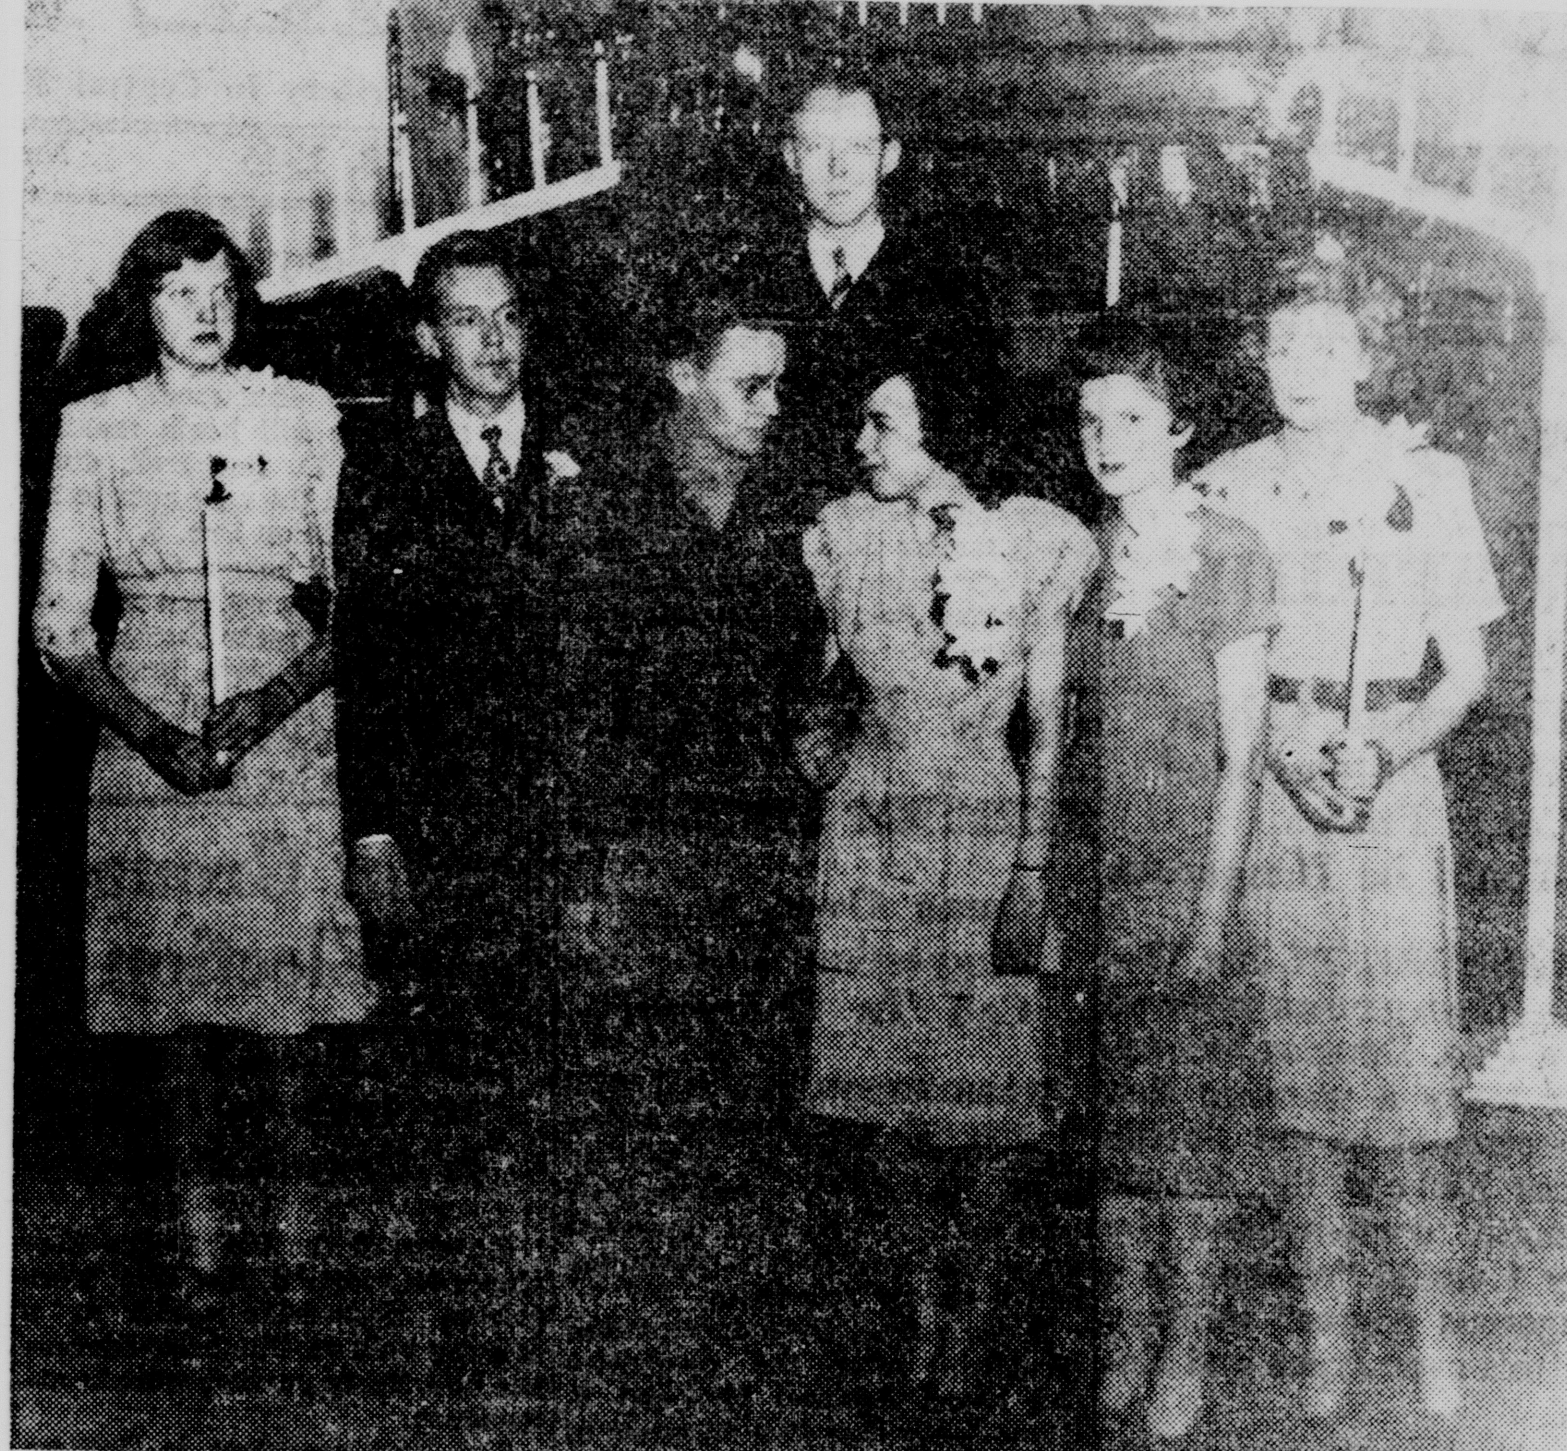

"For meritorious and efficient performance of duty while serving as a shore party communication team officer with a Marine assault signal company during operations against the enemy on Kwajalein Atoll, Marshall Islands, Saipan and Tinian, Marianas Islands, and Iwo Jima, Volcano Islands from 1 February 1944 to 20 March 1945. During the early phase of the Iwo Jima operation First Lieutenant Alpert kept continuous radio and wire communications on his assigned beach despite heavy material and personnel casualties to his team, and thereby aided materially in the success of the shore party activities. By maintaining communications with the battalion landing team to which he was attached, was instrumental in keeping them supplied with sorely needed food, water, and ammunition. He continuously displayed keen appreciation of his responsibilities as an officer and leader. His initiative in the performance of his duties was an inspiration for all who served with him and in keeping with the highest traditions of the United States Naval Service."

Police Officers Free Cat From Tree On Court House Square

A half-grown, hungry and apparently friendless cat, stranded for over six hours in a big tree on the north side of the court house square, was rescued from its forlorn, wind-swept perch early Saturday morning by three police officers.

It wasn't much a rescue job as it was one of coaxing and encouragement, for the feline finally gained courage enough to make the descent by itself, but not until it had been given a half hour's pep talk.

The kitten, whose fur is a tattle-gray, with black accents, was first noticed in the tree about 6 p. m. Friday, and gave evidence of being unhappily situated, due to the height it had attained. At 7 p. m. an inquiring reporter on a return trip to the scene could not see the cat and presumed it had come down.

Calling For Help However, on an after-midnight tour the news hound discovered that the cat was still aloft and was meowing piteously for assistance.

Police aid was sought and Officers John Neitert, Lon Maness and Robert Walker made an investigation, the beam of a flashlight showing the sad kitten peering over the edge of a hollow in a stump of a limb, more than 20 feet above the ground.

At first it was thought that reserve forces from the fire department would be needed, but after much cajoling on the part of the rescuers and uncertain gymnastics by the young and frightened cat, the latter eventually clawed and slid its way down to a crotch of the tree and after further debate, down the heavy trunk, slippery from the cold mist that was falling.

Spotlight Helped The spotlight on the patrol car was used to entice the animal on its down-grade climb.

It was a wiser cat, probably chased up the tree by a dog, that nestled against the blue-coat of one of the local gendarmes, and it spent a happy day Saturday behind a radiator at police headquarters.

pastor of the Epworth Methodist church, officiating.

Mrs. F. P. Withers and Mrs. R. H. Robb, accompanied by Mrs. Ed Ringen, sang: "Rock of Ages," "Beulah Land," and "Precious Memories."

Pallbearers were S. W. Welch, Lloyd Waters, Walter Banning, Charlie Watson, Harry Zimmer-schied and Harry Terrell.

Burial was in the Smithton cemetery.

Leroy Payne

Sedalia friends have received word of the death December 26 of Leroy Payne at his home in Good Hope, Ill., after an illness of several years which terminated in a heart ailment.

Mr. Payne was the son of the late Mrs. Mary Powers of 903 South Lamine avenue, Sedalia, and spent much time here with his mother during her declining years.

Mr. and Mrs. Payne had been married 36 years on Christmas day, the day preceding his death.

Mrs. Walter M. Intire Service

Norton, Mass., Jan. 9—Funeral services for the late Mrs. Walter O. McIntire, who died at St. Luke's Hospital in Middleboro, Mass., early this morning, (Wednesday) will be held on Friday afternoon at 1:30 at the Egger Funeral Home in Middleboro. Burial will be in the Norton Center Cemetery on Pine Street, Norton, Dr. J. Edgar Park of Osterville, Mass., president emeritus of Wheaton College, will officiate.

Mrs. McIntire (Rebecca Elizabeth Berry) was born Dec. 23, 1878 in Sweet Springs, Missouri. Shortly after the Spanish-American war she went to the Philippines to teach in one of the schools sponsored by the United States government. She was married in 1904 to Dr. Walter O. McIntire, who was teaching at the University of Silliman in the Philippines. In 1914 Dr. McIntire came to Wheaton College as head of the department of philosophy, and for 27 years they lived on Main Street in Norton, until Dr. McIntire's retirement from the faculty in 1941. Since that time they have made their home at Cedarville on Long Pond, Lakeville, Mass., but have spent this winter season at Linden Lodge, Middleboro.

Mrs. McIntire is survived by her husband; two sons, David of Lansdowne, Pa., and Raymond of Boston; one grandson, David Harding McIntire of Lansdowne, Pa.; and one sister, Mrs. Ocie Smith of Houston, Missouri.

D. R. Glaze

Dr. and Mrs. Lowell Glaze, 620 West 4th street were called to Cainsville, Mo., because of the death of Dr. Glaze's father, Mr. D. R. Glaze.

Dr. Glaze was well as usual, having spent part of the winter in Sedalia. He was stricken with a heart attack early in the week. He was moved to the hospital in Princeton, Mo., where he passed away Saturday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Truman D. Glaze, Wichita, Kas., spent Friday night in Sedalia enroute to Cainsville. The funeral will be held Monday afternoon, in Cainsville.

As in former years, one-half of all the money collected in the county will remain here to finance the hospitalization, care and treatment of local sufferers. The other half goes to headquarters of the National Foundation and is used for continuing research, education and emergency aid in epidemics throughout the nation.

Coin Boxes As in the past, March of Dimes coin collection boxes will be placed at convenient spots throughout the county and coin cards will be distributed. In the light of widespread public knowledge of the National Foundation's tremendous achievements in recent epidemic years, the local appeal committee is expecting a greater response this year than ever before.

"Polio-myelitis" is one of the most expensive diseases known to medicine. Hospitalization for a single patient costs more than $2,500 a year. Some cases require continuing care for several years. Not only must many victims of past epidemics receive continuing care, but each year's outbreaks add new names to the steadily growing list. Few families can meet the cost of extended polio treatment. Through the annual March of Dimes, treatment and care can be assured for all polio victims regardless of age, race, creed or color.

Mrs. John McLaughlin and Mrs. Herman Janssen, council members attended the meeting. Mrs. McLaughlin talked on the "Fat Collection" and asked the leaders to contact her for a revision of their troop's Fat Collection territory.

Father and Son Both Cited In World War II

"Jimmy" Luckett Posthumously Given "Soldier's Medal"

Sedalia may be particularly proud of the war record of one of its families, a family in which the father, a veteran of two World Wars and his 21 year old son were cited for unusual service. There is sadness mingled with the pride because the heroism for which the son was commended, cost him his life.

The two are Lieutenant Colonel Luther J. Luckett, 319 West Sixth street, now at his home, and his son, Pvt. Luther J. "Jimmy" Luckett, Jr., to whom the government has posthumously awarded the Soldier's Medal, and which medal at a later date will be formally presented the young soldier's mother.

There is no higher award given by the government for heroism in action, not in combat, than the Soldier's medal. It is comparable with the Carnegie Medal of Honor, and is the only one that provides a monthly payment to the recipient if he lives.

Saved Companions

The citation, a copy of which appears below, explains the heroic manner in which young Luckett ran from a group with a grenade, protecting them, but causing a fatal wound to himself. He was in France at the time, and his father, then a Major, was in service only about thirty miles away.

The young Private was a older son of Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Luckett, a grandson to T. R. Luckett, of Kansas City, formerly of Sedalia and the late Mrs. Luckett, and the late Mr. and Mrs. Jule G. Schmid, also pioneer Sedalians. He was graduated from Smith-Cotton high school in 1940, and had attended the university of Missouri a year and half before entering the service. His citation, embodied in a letter to Mrs. Luckett, reads:

"War Department, The Adjutant General's Office, Washington 25, D. C.

"Mrs. Emily S. Luckett, 319 1/2 West Sixth Street, Sedalia, Missouri

"Dear Mrs. Luckett:

"I have the honor to inform you that, by direction of the President, the Soldier's Medal has been posthumously awarded to your son, Private Luther J. Luckett, Jr., Infantry. The citation is as follows:

"For heroism not involving actual conflict with the enemy, at  on 26 December 1944. When a hand grenade that he was carrying in his pocket accidentally became activated, Private Luckett, standing in the midst of a group of soldiers, with great presence of mind ran from the group before attempting to dispose of the grenade. The heroic effort of Private Luckett interfered with his attempt to remove the grenade and caused a fatal wound to himself.

"(Authority: GO No. 22, 14th Arm. Div., 25 Feb. 45, Pvt. Service Co., Tank Bn.)

"The decoration will be forwarded to the Commanding General, Seventh Service Command, Omaha, Nebraska, who will select an officer to make the presentation. The officer selected will communicate with you concerning your wishes about the presentation.

"My deepest sympathy is extended to you in your bereavement.

"Sincerely yours,

"Edward F. Wittsell, Major General,

"Acting The Adjutant General."

Awarded Bronze Star Medal

Lieut. Col. Luckett, who has three battle stars for each of the two World Wars, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal for unusual service, as set forth in his citation, as follows:

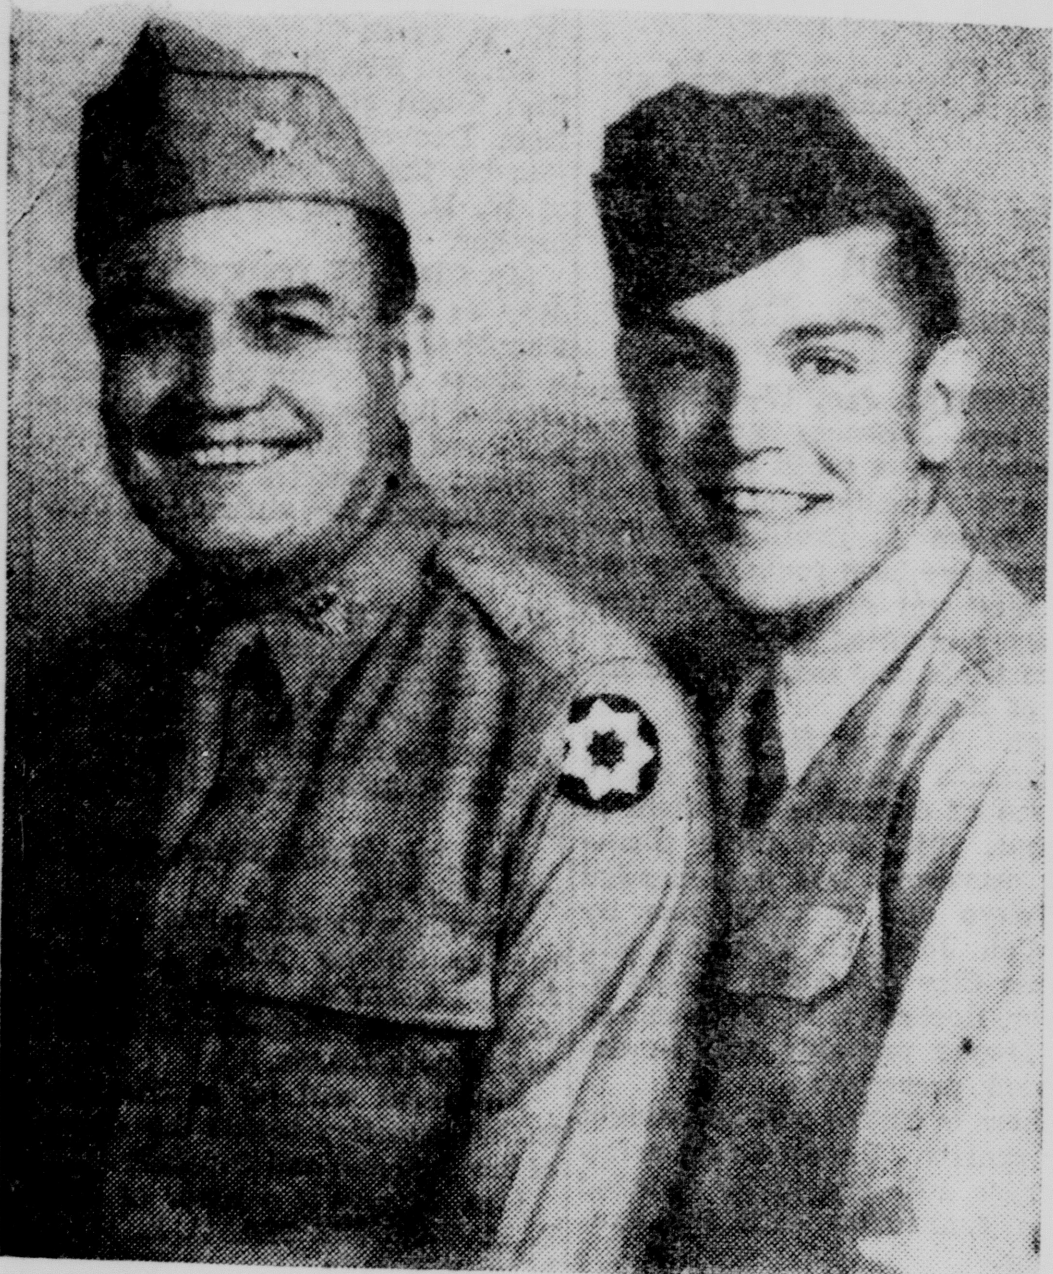

"Citation for Bronze Star Medal: Major Luther J. Luckett (Army Serial No. 0253347), Field Artillery, United States Army, for meritorious service in connection with military operations, as Battalion Commander, Headquarters and Headquarters Detachment, 87th Reinforcement Battalion, 14th Reinforcement Depot, from 23 December 1944 to 8 May 1945. Major Luckett was assigned the task of processing hospital returnees almost exclusively. In meeting the different, exceedingly difficult and trying problems involved in handling these returnees, Major Luckett showed great patience, sympathy and understanding. He developed, modified and adopted procedures to meet the unique situation. As a result, the job of feeding, quartering, processing and forwarding of these returnees to their respective units was accomplished successfully under the most unfavorable conditions. His patience, courage and unselfish and untiring efforts, over and above the call of duty, greatly encouraged and stabilized the permanent personnel and returnees. Entered military service from Missouri."

Kept Home Here

During the absence of Lt. Col. Luckett, Mrs. Luckett, the former Miss Emily Schmid and their younger son, Dudley, resided at the West Sixth street address in Sedalia.

Placed over pollen-bearing tassels, paper bags prevent the cross-pollination of hybrid corn with other varieties.

Father And Son Cited

Lieutenant Colonel Luther J. Luckett, 319 West Sixth street, and his son, Pvt. Luther J. "Jimmy" Luckett, Jr., smile while on a reunion when both were in the service. "Jimmy" lost his life in France on December 26, 1944, and was posthumously awarded the Soldier's Medal, the highest award made by the government for heroic action not in combat. He was cited for heroism. His father, a veteran of World War I as well as World War II, was awarded the Bronze Star Medal, which was presented to him while overseas.

Officers Job's Daughters Are Installed

Installation of officers for Order of Job's Daughters Bethel No. 15, Sedalia, was held at the Masonic Temple Wednesday night. The blue room was attractively decorated in the Job's Daughter's colors of purple and white in the east, with a solid background of purple and with white streamers extending from the back over the platform to the front. Lighted candles were at each end of the platform.

A large crowd of parents and friends witnessed the impressive ceremony, which followed the regular transaction of business by the Bethel, presided over by Miss Mary Jo Vilmer, the retiring Honored Queen.

Mrs. Frank Coffman, Guardian, and Floyd Knerl, Associate Guardian, were conducted to the East by the senior and junior custodians, Janie Van Dorn and Dorothy Williams respectively.

The choir entered the room and took their places, followed by the officers who took their respective stations for the business session.

Parents and friends were welcomed by Mrs. Coffman and installing officers announced by Miss Mary Jo Vilmer.

Following the business session, Mrs. Mary Spears, installing grand guardian; Miss Dorothy Maxwell, installing grand chaplain; Mrs. Kay Rynard, installing grand secretary; Miss Mary Jo Vilmer, installing grand guide; Miss Frankie June Rodgers, installing grand marshal; and Mrs. Mildred Downey, installing grand pianist; entered the room and were escorted to their respective stations for the installation.

Miss Frankie June Rodgers, carrying the American Flag, entered, grounded the flag and gave an appropriate tribute. All present repeated the Pledge of Allegiance to the Flag.

Miss Dorothy Jane Knerl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Knerl, the newly elected Honored Queen, was conducted to the altar by the installing grand guide, Miss Vilmer and then to her place in the east.

Arriving in the east Miss Knerl was duly crowned by the installing grand guardian, Mrs. Spears. The new Queen was then presented with a beautiful mixed bouquet by Miss Kay Williams, small daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Williams, and a cousin of Miss Knerl.

Mary Hausman sang the Honored Queen the song "Be Thou Faithful." She was accompanied by Miss Rosalie Marshall.

Mrs. Frank Coffman presented a past honored Queen's jewel to Miss Mary Jo Vilmer with an appropriate talk. Miss Vilmer responded with a few words of appreciation for the gift and to the retiring officers and others who so ably assisted her during her recent term.

Miss Knerl expressed her appreciation for the honor of serving as Honored Queen and then presented her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Knerl, with each responding with a few remarks.

Shrine Club Honored

The new Honored Queen presented the Past Honored Queens present, Council members and other officers of Masonic bodies in the audience. Members of the Sedalia Shrine club attended the meeting in a body. Mrs. George Chambers, Grand Custodian for the state of Missouri, was present and introduced by Miss Knerl and gave a few remarks.

At the close of the ceremony a beautiful and picturesque scene was enacted by the traditional march and the officers forming a cross with members of the choir in the background.

The newly elected officers installed were as follows: Honored Queen, Miss Dorothy Jane Knerl; Senior Princess, Miss Mary Louise Chesser, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Chesser; Junior Princess, Miss Shirley Ragar, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Ragar; Guide, Miss Elaine Warren; Marshall, Miss Vivian McAtee; Recorder, Miss Betty Anderson; Junior Custodian, Miss Jean Gregory; Librarian, Miss Betty Smetana; Senior Custodian, Miss Wilma Ruth Shelton; Treasurer, Miss Mary Brady; Chaplain, Miss Betty Yvonne Ellsworth; First Messenger, Miss Mary Frances Schib; Second Messenger, Miss Norma Jean Percival; Third Messenger, Miss Nancy Campbell; Fourth Messenger, Miss Rosalie Kirkpatrick; Fifth Messenger, Miss Anita Isgur; Inner Guard, Miss Joann Schott; Outer Guard, Miss Janie Van Dorn; Pianist, Miss Alleen Hall.

Club Honored Birthdays

The Quisenberry Community club held the first regular meeting of 1946 at the Quisenberry school house on Friday evening, January 11.

The meeting was in the form of a birthday dinner with the social committee in charge.

Four birthday tables were arranged, representing the four seasons of the year. Each person's birthday date determined where they were to be seated.

After the dinner had been served the new president, Eugene Helman, was in charge of a social business meeting.

The educational committee was in charge of a truth and consequence program with Mrs. Eugene Helman acting as master of ceremonies. Persons missing their question paid into the club treasurer one penny for each year they were old, then had to "suffer" whatever consequence the master of ceremonies saw fit to name.

The outstanding consequence was the Hawaiian dance in native costume by Garnett Haggard.

Damage by Fire To Scruton Garage

Damage of about $150 resulted to a garage and contents at the residence of Mrs. Alice L. Scruton, 724 West Third street, about 11 o'clock Monday morning. Both fire companies answered the alarm.

The fire started from sparks from a trash pile near by. A burning flue caused a run by the fire companies to the residence of C. Carpenter, 920 West Second street, at 6:47 o'clock that morning. No damage resulted.

Dies In Japan

Pvt. Daniel E. Ryan, who would have been 20 years old February 12, son of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Peirson, of Grand Island, Neb., where he was acting manager of the Coca Cola Bottling Company, has moved to Sedalia and has accepted a position with Arthur Powers in the sales and advertising department of the Dr. Pepper Bottling Company, assuming his duties there on January 1. With his wife and son, Bobby, two years old, he will reside at 215 East Seventh street.

Cabinet Maker Parkhurst, Made Toys for Children

"W. R. Parkhurst, PhM 3/c has a couple of inventions of his own that he has worked out since being connected with the carpenter shop. One is a molding cutter, that is used in place of a saw blade to cut picture frame moldings and the second is an automatic circular cutter, the cutter cuts out wheels automatically on a drill press instead of using a band saw. Around 1,000 wheels can be made in five hours."

The article, in part, appearing in the Farragut News on December 13, was as follows:

"Well the carpentry shop at the hospital rehabilitation department set up in Dennison Drill Hall is making it possible for some children to have a great, big fire engine for Christmas."

"The little shop, manned by corpsmen and patients, is doing a big job making toys for orphans and crippled children this Christmas, according to Henry Hartzell, PhM 3/c and W. R. Parkhurst, PhM 3/c, the supervisors."

"Last week, running on the production line, the shop was turning out 30 great big red fire engines, tractors and dump trucks an hour. Both Parkhurst and Hartzell have devoted much time to the job of making the toys. Both helped design the patterns and both supervised the production line."

Parkhurst, who went in the navy more than a year and a half ago, has now been sent to Mare Island and to assume his duties in making artificial limbs.

Poultry Meeting At Columbia

The Missouri Poultry Industry Conference will be held at Columbia, Missouri, January 17 and 18. Poultrymen, produce and feed dealers, and others interested in poultry production in Missouri are invited to attend this meeting.

Insulated Tank Keeps Ice Off Water

NO ICE IN THIS TANK EVEN IN SUB-ZERO WEATHER

A well insulated concrete tank has been in use on a Boone county farm the past year with no trace of ice on the water even in temperature 5 degrees below zero. The tank gets its water supply by gravity from a large pond.

If you have a good farm pond such a tank could be made a dependable year-around means of having water before livestock at all times. This can be done without pump, motor, tank heater or labor of cutting ice in winter.

The methods by which the tank is insulated, leaving only 18 inches of water exposed at one end of the tank are described in Extension Circular 523 just published by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture.

Well illustrated by 12 drawings and pictures this circular contains a complete description of the original tank and tells how you can make one like it. A bill of materials for forms and directions for mixing the concrete are given together with other helpful suggestions on constructing an automatic all-weather stock tank.

A copy of the circular may be obtained without cost at the county extension office, 410 1/2 South Ohio, Sedalia, Mo.

Persons will be given in communities where they have not been held. Cookies are to be sent to the U. S. O. and Sunday night snacks will also be served for the U. S. O. Scrapbooks will again be made for hospitals.

Novel decorations provided a party atmosphere. Mr. Snowman and his wife, figures fashioned from cotton and dressed in the latest style, had rolled up a heap of snow balls. As each person selected a snowball she was delighted to find a red leather address book, a gift from Miss Alexander, attached to it.

After the meeting the women were given the opportunity of going through the bookmobile. The tour was conducted by Miss Kathryn Mier, of the Missouri Library Commission, Jefferson City, Mo.

The following clubs were represented: Arator, Bennett Home Improvement, Blackwater Progressive, Bothwell, Champion Striped College, Dresden, Flat Creek, Georgetown, Hopewell, Hughesville, La Monte Homemakers, La Monte Thursday, Longwood, Lookout, Maplewood, Neighborly Neighbors, Oak Grove, Oak Point, Prairie Ridge, Quisenberry, Ringgen, Smithton, Smithton Friendly Homemakers, Stokeley, Sunnyside, and Van Natta.

Cattle Club Meeting Jan. 29

The seventh district Jersey Parish meeting of the Missouri Jersey Cattle Club will be held at the county extension office, 410 1/2 south Ohio, in Sedalia on Saturday, January 26 at 11:00. Ten such meetings will be held throughout the state within the next few weeks and Sedalia has been chosen as the meeting place for the seventh district which comprises a number of west Missouri counties.

Representatives from the State Extension Service and others will be here to discuss dairy problems with Jersey breeders. Among the things to be discussed are Parish Shows, state sales, junior program, Missouri Jerseymen, and artificial insemination.

The meeting will be attended by Jersey breeders and those interested in the dairy program for this district.

Slight Decrease In Milk Of Dairy Herd Association

The 140 cows owned by members of the Pettis County Dairy Herd Improvement Association produced an average of 504 pounds of milk and 24.1 pounds of butterfat per cow during the month of December. This is a slight decrease in pounds of milk produced but a slight increase in pounds of butterfat. The Association had four cows that produced over 50 pounds of butterfat and eighteen cows that produced over 40 pounds but under 50 pounds of butterfat. Fifteen cows produced more than 1000 pounds of milk.

Low Producers Sold

Good care and feed in the winter time are essential if production is kept up. Milk cows require 100 to 300 pounds of water daily. When their supply of water is decreased, milk production falls first. If the chill is taken off the water more will be consumed.

For most profitable results all grain should be ground. Feed all of the roughage the cows will clean up. This approximates 2 to 2 1/2 pounds of hay daily for each 100

Replace Many Of Old Crop Varieties

Emphasis Is Laid On Improvement Of Missouri Crops

Twenty-five years of effort by the University of Missouri College of Agriculture and the seed growers of the state have replaced most of the old crop varieties with new and better ones. This statement was made at the recent annual seed show of the Missouri Seed Improvement Association by W. C. Etheridge, head of the college department of field crops.

This department has always laid emphasis on crop improvement either by plant breeding or by introduction of promising varieties from outside the state. As early as 1917 the College introduced the soybean crop and got it going in the early 20's.

The department also was one of the early developers of hybrid corn, having had a hybrid corn breeding program for nearly 20 years. Two varieties now widely used, Missouri 8 and 27, are results of this work.

Varieties of Grain

Field crops work at Missouri has narrowed down the varieties of wheat generally grown in Missouri to Clarkan and Early Premium. The former was introduced from Kansas and is recommended for bumper yield, the latter is a result of Missouri plant breeding and selection and is outstanding for quality. Each has its place and purpose.

In oats production, the Columbia has long dominated the Missouri acreage and has attained wide popularity in Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and eastern Kansas. The Columbia variety was first introduced in the early 20's.

Among soybean varieties, the Virginia was long dominant except in Southeast Missouri, where Laredo was the accepted variety. More recently the Missouri department of field crops has developed and introduced the Boone and has several others nearly for distribution.

Similarly the old varieties of cotton have been replaced by such new varieties as Deltapine, Stoneville and Ambassador strains. This change has been greatly hastened by the cooperation of ginners and growers organized for one-variety production.

The biggest of all these changes has been the introduction of lespezes—from an unknown in 1925 to the major crop of the State in 1945.

The department has also promoted and spread such crops as Atlas sorgo for silage and fodder, as well as the Pink and Sunrise varieties for grain.

Balbo rye was introduced as a dairy pasture and has proved highly useful for that purpose. Winter barley was developed for both pasture and grain.

New and superior varieties have replaced practically all the crop varieties formerly grown in Missouri, with the exception of bluegrass, alfalfa and red clover, which do not have many varieties or strains.

Big Saving On Feed By Pasture

Pasture saved an average of $6.90 a month on the feed cost of each cow in the Missouri Valley Dairy Herd Improvement Association, according to the records kept on 1270 cows by the association last year, R. S. Caldwell. This was the average saving for the six months, April through September, 1945 as compared to the cost of grain feeding in the preceding six months.

Cows on full pasture were charged $3.00 a month for each month they were on pasture and this charge was included in their feed cost. The average production of the 1270 cows in the association herds was 8310 pounds of milk and 335 pounds of butterfat a cow for the year. Approximately one-half of the total production was made in the feeding period and one-half on pasture.

Commenting on this record, E. T. Itschner of the University of Missouri College of Agriculture says: "We should note that this is not the record of just a single herd but of 40 Central Missouri herds, including all kinds of cows and all kinds of pasture over an entire season. The saving amounted to more than $1.00 for each 100 pounds of milk, yet it does not take into account the labor saved when the cows were on pasture. It shows that dairymen can well afford to plan and spend some time and money to build good, long-season pasture systems on their farms."

William J. Murphy Goes To Columbia

Wm. J. Murphy, associate county agent of Pettis county has accepted a position in the state extension office in Columbia and assumed his new duties in Columbia on January 7. Mr. Murphy has been with the Pettis county extension staff since November 14, 1945 and prior to that time he was assistant county agent of Pettis county from 1939 to 1942. Mr. Murphy has many acquaintances and friends in Pettis county who wish him well in his new position.

its members support this measure." Senator Olin Johnston (D-SC) then arose to express the belief that the senate action "will cause trouble and probably will cause riots here in Washington and other cities."

Eastland called attention to the crowd in the galleries, asserting that "a bunch of fanatics and Communists are down here from New York City trying to stampede the senate into an unconstitutional measure."

Spectators hissed as Eastland referred to "Communists."

"At least half of the organizations supporting this," Eastland said "are Communist front organizations. The American people should know they are strong enough to sidetrack anti-strike legislation in senate and bring up FEPC."

Security Body Of The UNO Is Organized

attended for Great Britain, Soviet Ambassador Andrei Gromyko for Russia, Ambassador V. K. Wellington Koo for China, and Minister of State V. Auriol for France.

The six smaller nations represented in addition to Australia were Poland, Brazil, Egypt, Mexico, and the Netherlands.

Stettinius, replying to a speech by Makin, said that whether the council "succeeds or not depends upon the manner in which the members of the Security Council discharge the special obligations they have assumed. This is the obligation to agree so that the council may be able to act, and act effectively."

Stettinius said that while the assembly, the economic and social council, and the trusteeship council must build a world "in which lasting peace will be possible," the security council "must make this a certainty."

A "public welcome" to UNO delegates was given tonight by the United Nations Associations of Britain and Northern Ireland. Field Marshal Lord Harold Alexander presided. The Archbishop of Canterbury was among the speakers.

In a reply Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt said that Woodrow Wilson, "who believed so wholeheartedly that an association of nations could be successfully formed and could keep the peace of the world, is being vindicated today."

their final discussions today in the cabinet room with Snyder, Secretary of Labor Schwelbensch and Dr. John R. Steelman, presidential assistant, Mr. Truman called his steel-fact-finding board into his own office.

Chairman Nathan P. Feinsinger of the three-man panel told reporters after a half-hour conference with the President that Mr. Truman had asked for whatever information the board had collected to date.

Feinsinger said he had informed the President that the only data at the board's disposal now is the public records of the industry, records of the old 1944 Teel wage case before the War Labor Board, and Bureau of Labor Statistics figures on earnings and hours.

The board is scheduled to report its findings and recommendations by February 10, but had delayed hearings during the negotiations.

Fairless left for New York City to report to the board of the steel corporation on the President's proposal. It was indicated that the corporation's reply would be made by letter.

Meanwhile Murray went into an immediate conference with his top associates in the Steelworkers' union, including Lee Pressman, general counsel; David J. McDonald, secretary-treasurer; and Clinton Golen and Van Bittner, assistant to the president.

Murray said that a number of the members of the 39-man executive board would be here tonight for additional conferences on the proposal.

Murray declined to discuss Mr. Truman's proposition, saying that he had given his word not to talk about it publicly.

Cattle Overturns Caboose

PUEBLO, Colo., Jan. 17—(P)—A heard of cattle attacked a Denver & Rio Grande Western railroad freight train near Spearpoint on the Marysville branch and overturned the caboose, railroad officials here said. Conductor W. M. Hoffman and brakeman D. B. Wagstaff were slightly injured.

Looting Ship

BATAVIA, Java, Jan. 17—(P)—Louis Guillemette, Woonsocket, R. I., captain of the American Liberty ship Frank B. Kellogg, said today looting was so bad in Tandjong Priok that one-third of his ship's 4,200-ton cargo will have been stolen from the docks by the time the vessel is unloaded.

S-C Tigers Lose To Jays 31 - 29

Opponents Win Out Through Use Of Long Shots

One of the best basketball games of the season was played Thursday night at Jefferson City. The Jays scored a close win over Sedalia with the final score at Jefferson City 31, Smith-Cotton 29.

At the half the score stood at 21 to 17 in Smith-Cotton's favor. However, they failed to shake the Jays completely by the end of the third quarter and the score was 26 to 21, again in Sedalia's favor. In the last quarter the Jays connected with some long shots with the Tigers playing a defensive game. Keane of the Jefferson City team came through with the winning basket from mid-court with about a half minute to play to place the Jays 31 to 29 over the Tigers.

Good On Free Throws

A close, good game was played by both teams and they stand at a split now, both teams having won the same number of games. In Friday's game Sedalia made good on 13 out of 16 free throws which should set some kind of a record. The last game between the Tigers and the Jays ended in the Tigers favor with a final score of Sedalia 33 and Jefferson City 28. A week from today Hannibal High school is expected to pay Sedalia a visit and they are also expected to furnish some good competition. So far Sedalia, Jefferson City, Columbia and Hannibal are all close and putting up some tough battles.

Inflationary Pressures On Increase

By Marvin L. Arrowsmith

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(P)—Government economists said today that in general current strikes are increasing inflationary pressures.

But some officials expressed the opinion that widespread and prolonged work stoppages could have the opposite effect eventually and thus cause prices for consumer goods to drop in areas directly affected.

OPA and commerce department analysts who asked that their names not appear in print said that beyond a doubt strikes now in progress are exerting great pressure on prices.

"The natural immediate tendency of families of workers out on strike," one commerce official asserted, "is to prepare for an emergency. This means that even though future income is uncertain, money available is spent to lay in food supplies, clothing and other essential items."

"It's a matter of buying now, rather than take a chance on being able to later."

No Fumble as He Puts Ring on

PASADENA, Calif., Jan. 17—(P)—"Look at the stick way he put that ring on my finger. Not a fumble!"

Happily, a WAC Medical Technician, Corp. Ruth Spaulding Langstaff, held tight to the hooks which Pte. Robert Langstaff uses for hands, after their marriage last night.

Margin Raised On Securities

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(P)—The Federal Reserve Board today raised the margin requirements for stock exchange trading to 100 per cent effective Monday.

The drastic step, designed to check speculation and curb inflation, will have the effect of halting any more dealings by the public "on margin" on the stock exchanges.

Persons who want to buy or sell listed securities will now have to post 100 per cent of their market value with the broker. The requirement has been 75 per cent since last July 5, when it was raised from 50 per cent.

The order also means that where dealers heretofore could lend customers 25 per cent of the value of the securities in their accounts for further trading, after Monday there can be no more such loans.

The order likewise affects any loans made by banks where securities are collateral and the proceeds are to be used for trading. But loans for other purposes are not affected.

Find Brain Of Dr. Ley Diseased

By FRANK CAREY

Associated Press Science Writer WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(P)—Post-mortem examination of the brain of the Nazi suicide Dr. Robert Ley—the Hitler-appointed dictator over all the German working people—has disclosed a long-standing brain disease "sufficient to have impaired (his) mental and emotional facilities."

This was learned today from scientists of the army institute of pathology, a division of the army surgeon general's office.

They have just completed "whole" and microscopic studies of the brain of the Hitler henchman and "labor front" leader who directed seizure of trade unions in the Reich, helped conscript German youth for labor and sought to pump the philosophy of Nazism into all the working people.

One of the institute of pathology scientists said "the disease process had been going on 'for years' in the brain of Ley who in 1933 avowed the Nazis' purpose to regiment German labor by declaring in a speech to workers:

"It is you whom we (the Nazi party) want; we will not let you be until you stand with us in complete, genuine acknowledgment."

Ley hanged himself last October rather than face trial as a war criminal and his brain was flown here from Germany for study shortly afterward.

WASHINGTON, Jan. 17—(P)—

Secretary of Labor Schwelbensch today appointed a fact-finding board to investigate the wage dispute in the meat packing industry. Schwelbensch said the panel would meet later today with representatives of the CIO and AFL unions and meat packing companies who are involved in the dispute.

The new panel is headed by Edwin E. Witte, former public member of the national war labor board. Other members are Clark Kerr, chairman of the now defunct war labor board's meat packing commission and chief justice Raymond W. Starr of the Michigan supreme court.

Schwelbensch will take part in this afternoon's meeting.

Goal War-Time Achievements

COLUMBIA, Mo., Jan. 17—(P)—

War-time achievements of farmers provide a chart to guide them in their future defense of the family-type farm, Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson declared last night.

Anderson, addressing a Missouri Bankers University conference, said if the family farm is to survive against forces of size and concentration, farmers must observe the practices of cooperation, utilization of technological advances, production controls, and other methods which they used with success during the war.

News Story Brings Official Ban on Gambling at Oahu

By Duane Hennessy

TOKYO, Jan. 17—(P)—General MacArthur's charter for the war crimes trials of Hideki Tojo, Japan's Pearl Harbor premier, and other top suspects will require the prosecution to prove each defendant guilty of a criminal act, headquarters reported today.

A spokesman said it would not be sufficient to prove that a defendant was a member of some malevolent organization or war-making cabinet. Neither will the spotlight Japanese be tried on charges of negligence—that as officers they failed to take certain steps that would have helped prevent the Pacific conflict.

Instead, the trials will seek to bring home to the Japanese people the personal guilt of each man facing the tribunal—personal affirmation of acts which constitute a crime against humanity committed by him as an individual.

He denied that anyone was taking a "cut" from the dice tables.

Staff Sgt. Buck Buchanan of Portland, Ore., Stars and Stripes reported, said in his published story that each of 10 tables had a GI taking a cut of the money when he watched games Monday night. He said he figured that about $1,000 was taken from the dice games during the night.

Saffarans said he would ask the paper to prove its statements that the games were organized. The personnel center handles thousands of troops on their way home for discharge and currently is housing approximately 7,000.

Several Key Japs Accused Of Complicity

In Mock-Trial and Execution of Doolittle's Men

SHANGHAI, Jan. 17—(P)—Several key Japanese accused of complicity in a mock court martial and execution of three of Gen. James A. Doolittle's Tokyo raiders have been rounded up and will face war crimes trials here, the army reported today.

The trials may begin before the end of January.

Capt. Tatsuta Sotojiro, who commanded the Japanese squad accused of executing the fliers in October, 1942, in a bleak Shanghai cemetery, was apprehended in Tokyo and brought here by Lt. Col. John H. Hendren, Jr., Kansas City and Capt. Robert T. Dwyer, Rochester, N. Y. Hendren and Dwyer probably will be designated prosecutors.

Others in Tokyo will be brought here shortly. Hendren said a few Japanese still are to be rounded up in connection with the executions.

Eight captured Doolittle fliers from two Mitchell bombers that crashed on the China coast after bombing Tokyo from the carrier Hornet were sentenced to death in a bizarre, makeshift court martial. Five of the sentences were commuted to life imprisonment but three fliers were shot to death as they knelt before open graves, their hands bound behind their backs.

The three were Lt. Dean E. Hallmark, Dallas; Lt. William G. Farrow, Darlington, S. C., and Sgt. Harold A. Spatz of Leopold, Kas.
